Lewis Makes Nine Demands on Soft Coal Operators

Union Will Seek Increase in Pay, Shorter Hours And Health Fund

SPECIFIC FIGURES ARE NOT MENTIONED

New Contract Details Are Left Wide Open for Bargaining

By HAROLD W. WARD

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—John L. Lewis made nine general demands of the soft coal operators today, including higher wages and shorter hours, without mentioning specific figures.

He left the new contract details wide open for bargaining in advance of the April 1 deadline set for a potential strike.

The major demands were:

1. A health and welfare fund for mine workers. Last year he asked, but did not receive a ten-cent per ton royalty, capable of netting the United Mine Workers more than $50,000,000 a year, for the purpose. This time he did not suggest how the money might be raised or what amount he seeks.

2. Increase of wages and reduction of daily and weekly working hours, affecting all classifications of inside and outside employes. The bituminous miners now receive $63.50 for a six-day, fifty-four-hour week. The basic 1941 wage agreement now in force calls for $1 an hour and a thirty-five hour week. The bargaining area on this demand apparently would be bounded by these two extremes.

3. Adjustment of the controversy affecting supervisory, technical and clerical employes. The National Labor Relations Board last week listed certain supervisory occupations which could be included in Lewis's supervisory branch of United Mine Workers. The decision may be headed for the Supreme court, but it contained the elements of a compromise on this issue, over which Lewis struck last October.

Severance Pay Adjustment

4. Adjustment of vacation, holiday and severance compensation. Last year the miners received $75 in lieu of vacation time-off. The current contract provides for five holidays and no severance pay.

Lewis, with his usual display of oratory, spoke for forty-five minutes before reading his proposals at a conference of operators and unionists which he called. At no time was he specific about what his starting demands would be. He said that "these proposals are submitted constructively and in good faith, and each and all of them are negotiable suggestions."

A UMW spokesman said such a wide-open procedure had sometimes been followed when Lewis negotiated contracts on a smaller basis but never before in a conference of Appalachian or nationwide proportions.

Lewis has been arguing for a return to "free collective bargaining" after the wartime limits on wages and working conditions proposed by the War Labor Board. He appeared to be following through on this position.

He accompanied his proposals with tables of government figures on labor costs and on accidents and fatalities in the industry. Presumably the former were to support his wage demands, and the matter to

AAF Streamlines Setup with Three Major Commands

Spaatz Says Air Forces Will Rely Primarily on Jet Planes

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—The army air forces streamlined its striking power into three major combat commands today with the announced goal of reaching "full fighting effectiveness" by the year's end.

Detailing reorganization plans, Gen. Carl Spaatz told reporters the AAF proposed to rely in the future primarily on new type, high-speed jet-propelled planes as fighters, and on bombers credited with far greater range than that of the B-29s which battered Japan.

"We will shift to jet propulsion entirely as the means become available," he added.

Spaatz said the army's rapid demobilization has destroyed much of the air forces' wartime effectiveness, the chief weakness being in technical crews to maintain planes, but noted that the AAF still has war-trained combat crews and "the best aeronautical weapons in the whole world."

"Under pressure," Spaatz said, "the process of reaching full effectiveness by next January 1 could be speeded."

General Motors And Union Hold Lengthy Session

Negotiators Recess at Midnight before Continuing Meeting

DETROIT, March 13. (AP)—(Wednesday)—After three and a half hours of steady deliberation, negotiators seeking to settle the General Motors strike paused briefly shortly after midnight for a recess before continuing their sessions early today.

Federal Mediator James F. Dewey and GM representatives emerged from the conference room but UAW-CIO delegates remained inside. There was no indication of how long the negotiations would continue, nor what progress was being made in settling the 113-day-old strike.

The night session followed a three-hour meeting Tuesday afternoon.

As the negotiators entered the meeting room, where they held a three and a half hour session yesterday afternoon, Special Federal Labor Mediator James F. Dewey declared, "We might work all night."

Harry B. Coen, GM director of industrial relations, left the conference room shortly at 11:15 p. m. but returned a few minutes later.

Asked by newspapermen what progress had been made, he replied, "There has been no real agreement on anything yet, but we're working hard on it. A contract like ours is a pretty technical thing."

Asked what significance the night session held, Dewey replied crisply, "We're trying to settle the strike."

The session was the first night meeting since February 28.

General Motors' 175,000 strikers have been off the job since November 21.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW vice president and leader of the GM strikers, asserted in answer to a question that he saw no special significance to the meeting.

"They were willing to meet and so were we," Reuther said.

Brownell Will Be Asked To Remain GOP Chairman

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—Friends of Herbert Brownell, Jr., on the Republican National Committee reported today that efforts would be made to persuade him to stay on as chairman.

Brownell, a New York lawyer, announced February 25 his intention to resign April 1. He said his professional obligations would not permit him to devote the necessary time and energy to the party.

Radcliffe Announces State Polio Project

BALTIMORE, March 12 (AP)—Sen. George L. Radcliffe (D-Md), chairman of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, announced today a project for group treatment of all Maryland victims of the disease who require "iron lungs."

The project, described by the senator as a "great advance," calls for establishment of a "respirator unit" for iron lung cases at the Children's Hospital school here. All such cases would be brought together in a single ward for group treatment and study.

Radcliffe and Miss Catherine C. Gaule, administrative assistant of the Maryland chapter, said new knowledge in treatment methods—including information on diets, therapy and psychiatric aspects—can be gained by assembling the cases at one location.

The Maryland chapter would bear the entire cost of the project for the first year or operation, estimated at $25,000, out of funds of the Baltimore city branch chapter.

Hoover Asks Western Hemisphere To Reduce Consumption of Wheat

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—The government's Famine Emergency Committee today appealed to the Western hemisphere to join the United States in eating less cereals to feed the hungry.

The appeal was made by former President Herbert Hoover, honorary chairman of the committee created by President Truman to campaign for a forty per cent reduction in domestic consumption of wheat and twenty per cent in fats and oils between now and June 30.

Looking beyond the present emergency, Secretary of Agrficulture Anderson issued a statement calling upon manufacturers and labor to co-operate to speed output of farm machinery and equipment. Some machinery plants are tied up by labor disputes.

Another development fas an appeal by Chester C. Davis, organizing chairman of the Famine committee, urging Americans to plant victory gardens this year.

Hoover told a news conference he believes this country and its Latin American neighbors can save upwards of 7,000,000 tons of cereals during the next 120 days to help fill a "famine gap" of about 9,000,000 tons.

Hoover said that unless broad conservation measures are undertaken in this hemisphere, supplies of cereals for hungry areas will total only about 12,000,000 tons to meet a need of about 21,000,000 tons.

He said the Famine committee believes that this country could cut its consumption 2,000,000 tons and Latin American countries could contribute 5,000,000 directly and indirectly by curtailing imports, by cutting consumption and by making all unneeded supplies available for hungry areas.

A saving of 2,000,000 tons by this country would be in addition to 6,000,000 tons previously promised during the first six months of this year.

Congress Pension Measure Suffers Setback in House

Chamber Approves Use of 100 Warships for Atom Bomb Tests

WASHINGTON, March 12. (AP)—Pensions for congressmen suffered a new setback today.

After a rousing fight, the House voted 217 to 116 to send back to its Rules committee a bill which would have brought congressmen within the civil service retirement system. The action, which puts the measure back on the shelf for the present, was taken with economy considerations in mind during this election year.

The Senate heard from Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of its Foreign Relations committee, that an understanding with Russia is not "insuperable" despite "disquieting" Soviet activities. Conally reported on the United Nations sessions to which he was a delegate amid a number of developments bearing on defense or foreign affairs:

100 Warships for A-Bomb Test

1. The House approved, 314 to 25, the use of 100 warships for the atomic bomb tests in the Pacific. The measure now goes to the Senate.

2. The House also granted, 313 to 32, authority for the transfers of 271 small ships to China for a navy. This also went to the Senate.

3. The House Military committee okayed a measure which would permit American military and naval missions to be sent to any country in the world. They have been sent abroad under presidential wartime powers but regular legislation at present provides only for missions to countries in this hemisphere.

4. The Senate Atomic Energy committee voted to set up a military board to review actions of the proposed civilian commission for control of atomic energy.

5. Secretary of Commerce Wallace, asking Senate Banking committee approval of the British loan agreement, said he thought Britain should transfer certain bases to the United States.

Revised Labor Bill Is Unveiled

6. The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill authorizing the appointment of 18,500 temporary and reserve officers to the regular navy. This will raise the authorized officer strength of the navy and marines from 20,072 to 38,572.

Chairman Murray (D-Mont), of the Senate Labor committee, formally unveiled a subcommittee's toned-down version of the Case strike control bill.

The measure, which bears little resemblance to the form in which it passed the House, was drafted at closed sessions by seven senators under Murray's leadership. Sponsors said it is based on the theory of making it easy for labor and management to get together to iron out disputes without any government compulsion.

The Senate bill would set up a new independent five-member federal mediation board to which would be transferred the conciliation and mediation services of the labor department.

Gunman in "Tails" Seriously Wounds Couple at Chicago

CHICAGO, March 12. (AP)—A man and woman were mysteriously and seriously wounded by a tail-coated gunman early today in a hotel lobby and police hunted as their assailant a man who worked a $700 swindle yesterday in Lansing, Mich.

Victims of the shooting in the Devonshire hotel at 19 East Ohio street, on the near North side, where Charles L. Kuhnel, 45, a real estate dealer, and Mrs. Patricia Ann Fisher, 38, his assistant and wife of Harry L. Fisher, Kuhnel's partner.

Mrs. Fisher was shot in the left breast and Kuhnel below the heart. They were taken to Passavant hospital.

Capt. Kyran Phelan, of Chicago avenue police, said that while his men had established no connection between the Lansing episode and the shooting of the couple as they left the hotel cocktail bar at 4 a. m., he believed both were done by the same man.

At the hospital, both victims related they were fired upon by a short man, about five feet two or three inches tall, wearing a full dress suit. They said he fired five shots into the ceiling, then directly at them. Both said they never had seen him before.

Phelan said the man wanted in Lansing also wore a dress suit and left it in his room there. The Lansing swindle, Phelan said, involved transfer of $700 in $100 bills. Investigators of the shooting found in a room in the Berkshire hotel, ad-

Russia Will Not Yield to Force, Izvestia Asserts

Soviet Historian Attacks Churchill's Proposal for Alliance

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, March 12 (AP)—Russia will not yield to any threat of force, and any attempt to frighten Russia leads down "a fatal road," a special article in Izvestia asserted today in a second Soviet press attack in two days on Winston Churchill's proposal for British-American military co-operation.

The article implied that Churchill's March 5 speech at Fulton, Mo., had the backing of the British government, and said he hoped the United States would take the primary role "in the future struggle which he is trying to inflame with all his strength."

The blunt, plainspoken definition of Russia's present position, written by Eugene Tarle, one of the Soviet Union's best known historians, was described by foreign observers as one of the most important commentaries in recent years of Soviet journalism.

"Dangerous" Advice

Tarle declared that Russia was not seeking "world domination," but that she intended to "secure all of her frontiers."

"She will not yield to any kind of threat, any kind of cunning, any kind of one-sided or many-sided weapons," he said, "but will continue on her way, not turning aside, not making attempts on foreign interests and not yielding ours."

The author said that Russia would not allow a repetition of 1941 and would "not permit even a most modest preparation for an attack on our borders." He described as "dangerous" the advice of some British newspapers that the way to deal with Russia is to "show them we are strong."

Nations which have tried to show force to Russia have always lost, Tarle declared.

"The Russian people can never be so irritated by anything as by efforts to frighten them. Churchill knows better than many that Hitler buried himself and the 'Third Reich' precisely by such an attempt. Why then does the fulton orator summon the two great Anglo-Saxon peoples into such a fatal road?"

Cites U. S., Russia Friendship

Tarle, commenting on Churchill's stress of the traditional friendship between Great Britain and the United States, said there also was an "old tradition" of friendly relations between the United States and Russia.

"Relations between Russia and America have been unalterably friendly," he declared.

Churchill's aim, Tarle said, was that "the Soviet Union will offend England somewhere and then the transatlantic brothers (the Americans)—so ardently loved by the British—will boil with indignation and then come to the rescue."

Mukden Situation Remains Obscure; Reports Conflict

CHUNGKING, March 12 (AP)—Official Russian assurance was given today that Soviet troops evacuated from Mukden were slated for shipment out of Manchuria, but the precise situation in and around Mukden was obscured by conflicting reports.

It was taken for granted here, however, that central government forces would be able to hold the city despite reported incursions of Chinese Communists. The latter were reported to have obtained a toe-hold in one suburban section.

From Northeast China command headquarters in Chinchow, 150 miles southwest of Mukden, Associated Press Correspondent Spencer Davis reported that Chinese government troops inside Mukden were taking control of the city in an orderly fashion. They were being steadily reinforced by well equipped units moving in over the Mukden-Peiping railroad.

Davis said there was no confirmation whatever, in telephoned messages from Mukden, of earlier reports of street clashes inside the city between Chinese Communists and government troops, nor was there any evidence of previously reported large fires there.

Maj. Robert Ring, Chicago, United States Army assistant military attache in Mukden, was quoted as saying that all complete units of Maj. Gen. Kovtoun Stankevitch's Red army garrison had been pulled out March 7 and 11, and that only rear echelon elements remained in the city.

A Chinese central news agency dispatch from Mukden said Stankevitch himself planned to leave the

Security Council May Not Convene Until March 25

Bad Weather Disrupts European Flying Schedules, Forcing Delay

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—The meeting of the Security Council of the United Nations Organization, originally scheduled to open here March 21, probably will not begin until March 25, Benjamin Cohen, of Chile, assistant secretary general in charge of UNO's Department of Public Information, said tonight.

He said bad weather conditions over Europe had disrupted flying schedules and made necessary the four-day postponement.

The UNO press chief made the announcement after his arrival in New York city from Philadelphia, Pa., where he completed a seventeen hour flight from Prestwick, Scotland.

Cohen said it was not known definitely whether the foreign ministers of the eleven nations represented on the Security council would attend the meeting this month in the Bronx, explaining that the rank of the officials at the conference would depend on an agenda still to be drawn. A tentative agenda may not be ready until three days before the opening of the session, he added.

One of the items on the agenda, he indicated, would be a report by a committee of experts on the rules of procedure to govern the Security council sessions.

China's representative will preside at the Bronx session, Brazil's one-month tenure in a rotating schedule expiring next Monday, Cohen said.

The duration of the Security council meeting was uncertain, he continued. An average-length meeting might run to three weeks or a month.

The military staff committee, which advises the Security council on all military matters, will meet in private sessions while the council is holding its public meetings at Hunter college, Cohen reported.

Connally Urges Big Three Parley To End Friction

UNO Assembly Delegate Calls for "Blunt" Talk if Necessary

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—Sen. Connnally (D-Tex) took note today of "disquieting and disturbing" Soviet conduct but held that "mutual understanding and co-operation with Russia are not insuperable."

Theo hairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee suggested in a Senate speech that Big Three or Big Five meetings be held from time to time to thrash out dangerous differences "eye to eye, in language clear and plain and if need be blunt."

Peering into "the troubled years ahead," he held it "imperative that the United States maintain an adequate army, a superior navy and a superlative air force"—for defense and for sustaining "our international rights and obligations."

But he said that so long as Russia, Britain and the United States "adjust differences as they arise, there will be peace. Those who want peace must not commit acts that tend to provoke war."

No nation, he said, "has a right by the exertion of tremendous economic or political pressure to subordinate other nations to its will."

Connally voiced conviction "that Russia does not want another war." He looked to peace treaties still to be made to "settle many questions that now vex us."

Meanwhile, he asserted "all nations must await their execution. No unilateral action should be taken toward anticipating what may result."

The senator called the first assembly of the United Nations "an unqualified success," while declaring that the organization could not win world peace "automatically."

Connally delivered his accounting on the London sessions, to which he was a delegate, in a Senate setting like that in which Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich), another delegate, urged firm dealing with Russia on February 27.

Baldwin Charges "Mud-Slinging" In Denying Tawes's Accusation

BALTIMORE, March 12 (AP) — Maryland's Democratic gubernatorial contest warmed up today with one candidate replying "mud-slinging" to another's charge that he was indulging in a "whispering" campaign.

Principals in an exchange in which the Ku Klux Klan was prominently mentioned were State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and Rep. H. Streett Baldwin (D-Md).

Both are candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor in the June primaries.

Tawes asserted in an address opening his Baltimore campaign last night that Baldwin had helped spread a rumor that he was connected with the Klan. Tawes denied he had any connection with the Klan and challenged Baldwin to produce proof that he had.

Baldwin replied in a statement that he never had made any such accusation and said he never indulged in such tactics. He accused Tawes of "mud-slinging" and challenged him to "stop putting on an act" and "get down to fundamentals."

Tawes told the Twelfth Ward Women's Democratic club that "certain persons" had circulated a "false report" that he was connected with the Klan. He denied he had ever been connected with it "in any way, shape or form."

He said that "one of the most earnest purveyors of this behind-the-scenes campaign whisper" was a Baltimore attorney whom he did not name. He said that Baldwin was "another spreader" of the rumor.

Tawes asserted this lawyer claimed to know about "affidavits" which would connect him with the Klan. Baldwin, he said, had told the story of these "affidavits" to two other Maryland congressmen and other persons.

Baldwin said he had called the rumors to the attention of Reps. George H. Fallon (D-Md) and Thomas D'Alesandro (D-Md) but he said he did it "in a friendly spirit."

He said he had heard the rumors from friends of Attorney General William Curran, whom he said was Tawes's "political backer."

Soviet Cavalry And Tank Units Are Said To Be Moving to West

Washington Requests Moscow To Confirm or Deny Rumors

DIPLOMATIC OFFICIALS ARE PUZZLED BY MOVE

Development Might Be Connected with Red Pressure on Turkey

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP) — The State department tonight disclosed it has received reports that Russian armed forces and "heavy military combat equipment" have been moving south from the Soviet frontier toward Tehran and the western border of Iran.

The United States government, the department said, has asked the Russian government to confirm or deny the reports and if they are true to explain the reason for the troop movements.

While the official announcement did not go into details of the Russian forces involved, diplomatic authorities said the forces were reported to include tanks and cavalry in considerable strength.

Officials Are Puzzled

The new American note on this situation is in addition to a note sent earlier this month protesting the failure of the Soviet government to withdraw its troops from Iran completely by March 2 in accordance with an Anglo-Soviet-American agreement made with the Tehran government during the war.

Diplomatic officials said that they did not know exactly the significance of troop movements toward the western border of Iran, which fronts on both Turkey and Iraq with its rich Mosul oil fields, but they said the development, if true, might be connected with Russian pressure on Turkey for possession of the Turkish provinces of Kars and Ardahan and for special rights in control of the Dardanelles.

Tehran itself for several days has been the scene of political disturbances as the result of which the leftist Tudeh party is reported to have compelled the dissolution of the present Parliament by preventing it from getting a quorum of members in time to vote itself an extension of its power to remain in office.

Delegates Differ On Monetary Body

By JOHN F. CHESTER

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 12 (AP)—A conflict of opinion between Chairman Fred M. Vinson of the powerful United States delegation and spokesmen for some other nations flared up today over the newly-created executive committee of the governors of the world bank and fund.

Pierre Mendes-France, chief delegate of France, brought the clash into the open by telling reporters the twelve-nation executive committee would live only during the two-week international monetary conference here.

Vinson, who proposed the body as a sort of steering committee and became its chairman yesterday, stated it would go on indefinitely.

Some other delegations were understood to support Mendes-France's view. Steering committee members named by Vinson are the United States, Britain, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, China, Egypt, France, India, Mexico, the Netherlands and Poland.

Tempo of the thirty-five-nation meeting on nearby Wilmington Island speeded up today with these developments:

A recommendation that only six months' time be granted in which Russia and ten other signers of the Bretton Woods agreements may enter the bank and fund under the original terms, if they have not already done so.

A quick but tentative decision on the terms by which Denmark may come in. The terms: She must contribute $68,000,000 to the $9,100,000,000 bank and a like sum in gold and currency to the $8,800,000,000 fund for the stabilization of world currencies.

A saving of 2,000,000 tons by this country would be in addition to 6,000,000 tons previously promised during the first six months of this year.

Congress Pension Measure Suffers Setback in House

Chamber Approves Use of 100 Warships for Atom Bomb Tests

WASHINGTON, March 12. (AP)—Pensions for congressmen suffered a new setback today.

After a rousing fight, the House voted 217 to 116 to send back to its Rules committee a bill which would have brought congressmen within the civil service retirement system. The action, which puts the measure back on the shelf for the present, was taken with economy considerations in mind during this election year.

The Senate heard from Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of its Foreign Relations committee, that an understanding with Russia is not "insuperable" despite "disquieting" Soviet activities. Conally reported on the United Nations sessions to which he was a delegate amid a number of developments bearing on defense or foreign affairs:

100 Warships for A-Bomb Test

1. The House approved, 314 to 25, the use of 100 warships for the atomic bomb tests in the Pacific. The measure now goes to the Senate.

2. The House also granted, 313 to 32, authority for the transfers of 271 small ships to China for a navy. This also went to the Senate.

3. The House Military committee okayed a measure which would permit American military and naval missions to be sent to any country in the world. They have been sent abroad under presidential wartime powers but regular legislation at present provides only for missions to countries in this hemisphere.

4. The Senate Atomic Energy committee voted to set up a military board to review actions of the proposed civilian commission for control of atomic energy.

5. Secretary of Commerce Wallace, asking Senate Banking committee approval of the British loan agreement, said he thought Britain should transfer certain bases to the United States.

Revised Labor Bill Is Unveiled

6. The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill authorizing the appointment of 18,500 temporary and reserve officers to the regular navy. This will raise the authorized officer strength of the navy and marines from 20,072 to 38,572.

Chairman Murray (D-Mont), of the Senate Labor committee, formally unveiled a subcommittee's toned-down version of the Case strike control bill.

The measure, which bears little resemblance to the form in which it passed the House, was drafted at closed sessions by seven senators under Murray's leadership. Sponsors said it is based on the theory of making it easy for labor and management to get together to iron out disputes without any government compulsion.

The Senate bill would set up a new independent five-member federal mediation board to which would be transferred the conciliation and mediation services of the labor department.

Gunman in "Tails" Seriously Wounds Couple at Chicago

CHICAGO, March 12. (AP)—A man and woman were mysteriously and seriously wounded by a tail-coated gunman early today in a hotel lobby and police hunted as their assailant a man who worked a $700 swindle yesterday in Lansing, Mich.

Mrs. Fisher was shot in the left breast and Kuhnel below the heart. They were taken to Passavant hospital.

Capt. Kyran Phelan, of Chicago avenue police, said that while his men had established no connection between the Lansing episode and the shooting of the couple as they left the hotel cocktail bar at 4 a. m., he believed both were done by the same man.

At the hospital, both victims related they were fired upon by a short man, about five feet two or three inches tall, wearing a full dress suit. They said he fired five shots into the ceiling, then directly at them. Both said they never had seen him before.

Phelan said the man wanted in Lansing also wore a dress suit and left it in his room there. The Lansing swindle, Phelan said, involved transfer of $700 in $100 bills. Investigators of the shooting found in a room in the Berkshire hotel, ad-

Russia Will Not Yield to Force, Izvestia Asserts

Soviet Historian Attacks Churchill's Proposal for Alliance

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, March 12 (AP)—Russia will not yield to any threat of force, and any attempt to frighten Russia leads down "a fatal road," a special article in Izvestia asserted today in a second Soviet press attack in two days on Winston Churchill's proposal for British-American military co-operation.

The article implied that Churchill's March 5 speech at Fulton, Mo., had the backing of the British government, and said he hoped the United States would take the primary role "in the future struggle which he is trying to inflame with all his strength."

The blunt, plainspoken definition of Russia's present position, written by Eugene Tarle, one of the Soviet Union's best known historians, was described by foreign observers as one of the most important commentaries in recent years of Soviet journalism.

"Dangerous" Advice

Tarle declared that Russia was not seeking "world domination," but that she intended to "secure all of her frontiers."

"She will not yield to any kind of threat, any kind of cunning, any kind of one-sided or many-sided weapons," he said, "but will continue on her way, not turning aside, not making attempts on foreign interests and not yielding ours."

The author said that Russia would not allow a repetition of 1941 and would "not permit even a most modest preparation for an attack on our borders." He described as "dangerous" the advice of some British newspapers that the way to deal with Russia is to "show them we are strong."

Nations which have tried to show force to Russia have always lost, Tarle declared.

"The Russian people can never be so irritated by anything as by efforts to frighten them. Churchill knows better than many that Hitler buried himself and the 'Third Reich' precisely by such an attempt. Why then does the Fulton orator summon the two great Anglo-Saxon peoples into such a fatal road?"

Cites U. S., Russia Friendship

Tarle, commenting on Churchill's stress of the traditional friendship between Great Britain and the United States, said there also was an "old tradition" of friendly relations between the United States and Russia.

"Relations between Russia and America have been unalterably friendly," he declared.

Churchill's aim, Tarle said, was that "the Soviet Union will offend England somewhere and then the transatlantic brothers (the Americans)—so ardently loved by the British—will boil with indignation and then come to the rescue."

Mukden Situation Remains Obscure; Reports Conflict

CHUNGKING, March 12 (AP)—Official Russian assurance was given today that Soviet troops evacuated from Mukden were slated for shipment out of Manchuria, but the precise situation in and around Mukden was obscured by conflicting reports.

It was taken for granted here, however, that central government forces would be able to hold the city despite reported incursions of Chinese Communists. The latter were reported to have obtained a toe-hold in one suburban section.

From Northeast China command headquarters in Chinchow, 150 miles southwest of Mukden, Associated Press Correspondent Spencer Davis reported that Chinese government troops inside Mukden were taking control of the city in an orderly fashion. They were being steadily reinforced by well equipped units moving in over the Mukden-Peiping railroad.

Davis said there was no confirmation whatever, in telephoned messages from Mukden, of earlier reports of street clashes inside the city between Chinese Communists and government troops, nor was there any evidence of previously reported large fires there.

Maj. Robert Ring, Chicago, United States Army assistant military attache in Mukden, was quoted as saying that all complete units of Maj. Gen. Kovtoun Stankevitch's Red army garrison had been pulled out March 7 and 11, and that only rear echelon elements remained in the city.

A Chinese central news agency dispatch from Mukden said Stankevitch himself planned to leave the

Bad Weather Disrupts European Flying Schedules, Forcing Delay

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—The meeting of the Security Council of the United Nations Organization, originally scheduled to open here March 21, probably will not begin until March 25, Benjamin Cohen, of Chile, assistant secretary general in charge of UNO's Department of Public Information, said tonight.

He said bad weather conditions over Europe had disrupted flying schedules and made necessary the four-day postponement.

The UNO press chief made the announcement after his arrival in New York city from Philadelphia, Pa., where he completed a seventeen hour flight from Prestwick, Scotland.

Cohen said it was not known definitely whether the foreign ministers of the eleven nations represented on the Security council would attend the meeting this month in the Bronx, explaining that the rank of the officials at the conference would depend on an agenda still to be drawn. A tentative agenda may not be ready until three days before the opening of the session, he added.

One of the items on the agenda, he indicated, would be a report by a committee of experts on the rules of procedure to govern the Security council sessions.

China's representative will preside at the Bronx session, Brazil's one-month tenure in a rotating schedule expiring next Monday, Cohen said.

The duration of the Security council meeting was uncertain, he continued. An average-length meeting might run to three weeks or a month.

The military staff committee, which advises the Security council on all military matters, will meet in private sessions while the council is holding its public meetings at Hunter college, Cohen reported.

Connally Urges Big Three Parley To End Friction

UNO Assembly Delegate Calls for "Blunt" Talk if Necessary

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—Sen. Connnally (D-Tex) took note today of "disquieting and disturbing" Soviet conduct but held that "mutual understanding and co-operation with Russia are not insuperable."

Theo hairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee suggested in a Senate speech that Big Three or Big Five meetings be held from time to time to thrash out dangerous differences "eye to eye, in language clear and plain and if need be blunt."

Peering into "the troubled years ahead," he held it "imperative that the United States maintain an adequate army, a superior navy and a superlative air force"—for defense and for sustaining "our international rights and obligations."

But he said that so long as Russia, Britain and the United States "adjust differences as they arise, there will be peace. Those who want peace must not commit acts that tend to provoke war."

No nation, he said, "has a right by the exertion of tremendous economic or political pressure to subordinate other nations to its will."

Connally voiced conviction "that Russia does not want another war." He looked to peace treaties still to be made to "settle many questions that now vex us."

Meanwhile, he asserted "all nations must await their execution. No unilateral action should be taken toward anticipating what may result."

The senator called the first assembly of the United Nations "an unqualified success," while declaring that the organization could not win world peace "automatically."

Connally delivered his accounting on the London sessions, to which he was a delegate, in a Senate setting like that in which Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich), another delegate, urged firm dealing with Russia on February 27.

Baldwin Charges "Mud-Slinging" In Denying Tawes's Accusation

BALTIMORE, March 12 (AP)—Maryland's Democratic gubernatorial contest warmed up today with one candidate replying "mud-slinging" to another's charge that he was indulging in a "whispering" campaign.

Principals in an exchange in which the Ku Klux Klan was prominently mentioned were State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and Rep. H. Streett Baldwin (D-Md).

Both are candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor in the June primaries.

Tawes asserted in an address opening his Baltimore campaign last night that Baldwin had helped spread a rumor that he was connected with the Klan. Tawes denied he had any connection with the Klan and challenged Baldwin to produce proof that he had.

Baldwin replied in a statement that he never had made any such accusation and said he never indulged in such tactics. He accused Tawes of "mud-slinging" and challenged him to "stop putting on an act" and "get down to fundamentals."

Tawes told the Twelfth Ward Women's Democratic club that "certain persons" had circulated a "false report" that he was connected with the Klan. He denied he had ever been connected with it "in any way, shape or form."

He said that "one of the most earnest purveyors of this behind-the-scenes campaign whisper" was a Baltimore attorney whom he did not name. He said that Baldwin was "another spreader" of the rumor.

Tawes asserted this lawyer claimed to know about "affidavits" which would connect him with the Klan. Baldwin, he said, had told the story of these "affidavits" to two other Maryland congressmen and other persons.

Baldwin said he had called the rumors to the attention of Reps. George H. Fallon (D-Md) and Thomas D'Alesandro (D-Md) but he said he did it "in a friendly spirit."

He said he had heard the rumors from friends of Attorney General William Curran, whom he said was Tawes's "political backer."

Soviet Cavalry And Tank Units Are Said To Be Moving to West

Washington Requests Moscow To Confirm or Deny Rumors

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—The State department tonight disclosed it has received reports that Russian armed forces and "heavy military combat equipment" have been moving south from the Soviet frontier toward Tehran and the western border of Iran.

The United States government, the department said, has asked the Russian government to confirm or deny the reports and if they are true to explain the reason for the troop movements.

While the official announcement did not go into details of the Russian forces involved, diplomatic authorities said the forces were reported to include tanks and cavalry in considerable strength.

Officials Are Puzzled

The new American note on this situation is in addition to a note sent earlier this month protesting the failure of the Soviet government to withdraw its troops from Iran completely by March 2 in accordance with an Anglo-Soviet-American agreement made with the Tehran government during the war.

Diplomatic officials said that they did not know exactly the significance of troop movements toward the western border of Iran, which fronts on both Turkey and Iraq with its rich Mosul oil fields, but they said the development, if true, might be connected with Russian pressure on Turkey for possession of the Turkish provinces of Kars and Ardahan and for special rights in control of the Dardanelles.

Tehran itself for several days has been the scene of political disturbances as the result of which the leftist Tudeh party is reported to have compelled the dissolution of the present Parliament by preventing it from getting a quorum of members in time to vote itself an extension of its power to remain in office.

Delegates Differ On Monetary Body

By JOHN F. CHESTER

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 12 (AP)—A conflict of opinion between Chairman Fred M. Vinson of the powerful United States delegation and spokesmen for some other nations flared up today over the newly-created executive committee of the governors of the world bank and fund.

Pierre Mendes-France, chief delegate of France, brought the clash into the open by telling reporters the twelve-nation executive committee would live only during the two-week international monetary conference here.

Vinson, who proposed the body as a sort of steering committee and became its chairman yesterday, stated it would go on indefinitely.

Some other delegations were understood to support Mendes-France's view. Steering committee members named by Vinson are the United States, Britain, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, China, Egypt, France, India, Mexico, the Netherlands and Poland.

Tempo of the thirty-five-nation meeting on nearby Wilmington Island speeded up today with these developments:

A recommendation that only six months' time be granted in which Russia and ten other signers of the Bretton Woods agreements may enter the bank and fund under the original terms, if they have not already done so.

A quick but tentative decision on the terms by which Denmark may come in. The terms: She must contribute $68,000,000 to the $9,100,000,000 bank and a like sum in gold and currency to the $8,800,000,000 fund for the stabilization of world currencies.

Radcliffe Announces State Polio Project

BALTIMORE, March 12 (AP)—Sen. George L. Radcliffe (D-Md), chairman of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, announced today a project for group treatment of all Maryland victims of the disease who require "iron lungs."

The project, described by the senator as a "great advance," calls for establishment of a "respirator unit" for iron lung cases at the Children's Hospital school here. All such cases would be brought together in a single ward for group treatment and study.

Radcliffe and Miss Catherine C. Gaule, administrative assistant of the Maryland chapter, said new knowledge in treatment methods—including information on diets, therapy and psychiatric aspects—can be gained by assembling the cases at one location.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 13

"I HAVE LEARNED"—"for I have learned in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content." Philippians 4:11. Read Philippians 4:11-14.

These are proud and humble words. A poet once said of another poet that he "saw life steadily and saw it whole." Paul's Greek word "learned", the scholars say, means just that. "It sums up his experiences . . . and regards them as a whole." "I have learned," he says, "from life." Never an easy school, but how wise it made him.

They might be proud and humble words for us if we have been good scholars and teachable in life's school. "I have learned—" What? The wages of good work? The secrets of quiet happiness? The bitter taste of fault and folly? Readiness for duty's summons, the recompenses of sorrow? God's nearness always and how to master time and chance and in their circumstances to be content? I have learned—" that is what life is for to teach us and promote us. Its lessons are both stern and kind, its examinations are in the quality of our souls. Its graduation is readiness for another and higher school.

PRAYER: O master teacher of us all, grant that in the school of life, we may be guided by Thy precepts, illuminated by Thy wisdom and inspired by Thy example. Forgive us our slowness to learn and our futile use of what we have been taught. Mature us in grace and goodness and knowledge of Thee, and to learn as if we were to live forever. In the great teacher's name. Amen.

Ambitious Young Man Wants Home; Wife a Fur Coat

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

When a man has to work hard for every nickel he's ever owned, marries a girl who doesn't know the value of money, there's bound to be trouble sooner or later.

Here's a typical situation:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I am a young man who had loads of ambition but had to come up a rocky trail. My mother died when I was 9, and I really never had much of a home, as my father was quite a dunkard. I quit school in my last year, which was around the time of the 1929 crash.

"Things were tough then. I stepped from pencil and ink to pick and shovel, bad air, smoke and exposure. I was a coal miner. Had two major accidents on my job, besides other narrow escapes. Got discouraged many times, but never gave up the ship.

"Well, years went by, and one day, just before Pearl Harbor, my wife and I met, and we were married a few months later, a church wedding with all the trimmings. It was well attended by her side. No one came from my side. I put every nickel in the pot, even borrowed money to buy her corsage.

"We were very happy during the time we went together and right after we were married. Her folks pitched in and got us started. Now something has happened, and we seem to fight very often. From the beginning, I dug in and worked and saved for our future home and furniture and rainy days. I started a bank account and bought bonds. Well, it seems that dollars are causing the trouble. She thinks I am tight. I'm looking ahead to the day when work may slow up. She wants a fur coat. I think it's better to warm you feet in your own kitchen and get things a person really needs—a roof over your head, your own place to live.

"I really haven't much against my wife, although we do fight to the point of parting and she has mentioned divorce. But it seems to me she is selfish and unreasonable. We havn't the same tastes. She plays the music and I have to dance. I think there is plenty of in-law inferference.

"I am really upset. It is on my mind all the time, and interferes with my work. I go out once in awhile, alone, to kind of forget, but it doesn't help much. I don't ever drink or smoke. Should I go on this way, or separate from my wife, go away and start life all over again?

"HEARTBROKEN."

If your wife knew what many a wife has had to learn the hard way—what it means to be married to a spendthrift who never has a thought for tomorrow—she'd give thanks every day of her life for a husband who wants to give her security. You certainly deserve great credit for all you've done against such handicaps.

On the other hand, do you think it could be possible that your early hard experiences might have made you a little over-apprehensive of the future, afraid to put a little money into pleasures now and then? Do you take your wife out for a really good time, say, at least once a week; bring her little surprises occasionally, remember her birthdays and your wedding anniversaries with appropriate gifts? If you've slipped up on any of these, you might turn over a new leaf and see if it may not help straighten things out.

Try, too, to make your wife see that there should be no "in-law interference" between a man and his wife. Don't fight with her about it, if you can help it, but talk it over some time when you are both in a mood to feel kindly toward each other. You still must have some times like that. Let her know you love her enough to want to make a go of your marriage, but remind her that it takes two to make a happy marriage.

Try out these suggestions for awhile before deciding to separate from your wife and let me know what happens. You may be able to work this thing out if you use your head on it as intelligent as you have used it on your financial affairs.

Intriguing Sea Food Airplane Service

AN ITEM, intriguing to Cumberlanders, has turned up in the news reports. It relates that three times weekly an airplane owned by the West Virginia Aix Express takes off from the Baltimore Municipal Airport with a load of sea food, and in less than three hours the housewives of Beckley, W. Va., are stampeding the markets to buy sea food as fresh as that being offered in the Baltimore markets the same day.

This unique service, brain child of a small-town airport operator is to be extended within a short time to Charleston, Bluefield and Princeton, thereby affording a large segment of the population of the somewhat isolated mountainous southern section of West Virginia, with respect to sea food, an opportunity of learning what it really tastes like.

The West Virginia Air Express came into being in early February when H. L. Sessler, manager of the Beckley Municipal Airport, found his mouth watering for the taste of fresh sea food. Assuming that other Beckley residents might have similar gustatory yearnings, Sessler contracted with a Baltimore firm for 5,000 pounds of sea food and sent the plane there to pick it up.

Beckley marketmen co-operated and plugged the fresh sea food with advertisements in the local papers and with large display signs in their store windows, and the cargo was sold out in a few hours.

Encouraged by this reception and by the word-of-mouth advertising which consumers of the first shipment spread around the town, Sessler sent his plane back a few days later for another shipment.

Now he is sending the plane to Baltimore three times a week and on each trip it is going back to West Virginia with a capacity load of 3,000 pounds of fish, oysters and lobsters.

Sessler is at present using a Noorduyn Norseman twin-engined plane, which, designed to carry nine passengers, has been stripped of most of the seats to provide space for a cargo limited to 3,000 pounds. But, encouraged by the success of the enterprise, he has purchsaed a Douglas DC-3, which he hopes to put into operation in ten days or two weeks.

This Western Maryland section is not so isolated from the sea food supply as the section in southern West Virginia has been, having quick rail connections that bring it here; but the community might be as eager to consume more of it as the housewives of Beckley, W. Va. Hence, the question arises as to why Sessler might not be induced to operate a sea food plane to Cumberland from Baltimore, or why other airlines operating and to operate here might not be similarly interested. Maybe this is something to which the chamber of commerce might well give attention.

Subsidy-Dropping Formula Is Needed

CONGRESS now has an official estimate of what it will cost to continue the subsidy program for another year beyond June 30. The bill will amount to $2,051,000,000, according to a statement presented to the House Banking committee by James F. Brownlee, deputy to Economic Stabilizer Bowles.

This is a huge sum of money for the government to spend to stimulate the production of certain foods and other commodities and at the same time maintain present price ceilings. It may not seem large when compared with the sums laid out to fight the war, but it would amount to a per capita tax of $40 on every employed person in the country if it were spread evenly over American workers.

So the subsidy program represents no small burden on the taxpayers and Congress should consider carefully whether the two billions of dollars involved will be well spent.

Mr. Brownlee declared that to end subsidies would bring an increase of eight per cent in food costs next year and of three and one-half per cent in over-all living costs. That would be more, he said, than the anti-inflation program could stand. Subsidies are imperative, in his opinion, to hold back "a whirl of inflation."

The government's figures should be carefully checked, and it would be worth while if some formula could be devised for dropping subsidies as soon as practicable. That would be a good way to make sure that they do not become a permanent fixture.

Hitting Americans In a Tender Spot

WHEN you take the sandwich away from the American citizen, or cut it in half, you are hitting him in a tender spot. The sandwich, originated by the Earl of Sandwich, after whom the Sandwich islands, now the Hawaiian islands, were named, despite its English origin, has developed into a distinctively American institution. Classed with it is an even more distinctively American institution, the "hot dog."

How many millions of Americans depend upon the sandwich as the basis for at least one meal a day—and for many it is an added snack at other times—is probably incalculable, but without doubt the number is enormous and embraces a very large part of the population. And what with the hustle and bustle of American life, it has passed from a novelty and a mere incidental to a real necessity.

It can thus be appreciated that the halving of the sandwich as recommended by President Truman's Famine Emergency Committee would result in a vast saving of bread and buns, and the need for that is painted as imperative. But the next question is whether Americans, who doubtless rest in the belief that the eating of a sandwich represents in itself a real saving of food, will respond to the recommendation.

It will be a hard and difficult and perhaps impossible sacrifice. It may be well wondered whether the sandwich-cutting plan as a bureaucratic device that might have been made more effective in other food-saving schemes will actually work out. Will the sandwich-eating American forego his necessary lunch, or brunch, or whatever it may be called, even in the face of the food reduction need? Will he merely order two sandwiches where hitherto he has ordered but one, and combine the two pieces of bread with a double slice of ham or beef or double portion of spread, thus revelling in a double, or giant, or super sandwich? And with that possibility will naturally arise the question whether the plan of halving the sandwich is not another one of those bureaucratic hidden schemes to fool the people with the inflation that is being translated into the growing cost of living.

Time only will tell. It may work out as planned, or like many of the foolish bureaucratic efforts at ostensible savings that came upon us with the war and were tolerated only for the sake of the war effort it may not. But, considering the general utility of the sandwich in American life, one can be excused for entertaining doubts that it will. In such case, some other plan will have to be tried out.

Anyway, the suggested plan is a stark reminder that this food business is really getting serious in this country.

Tax Zooming Record Poses a Question

THERE'S NOTHING SURE but death and taxes, according to the old saw which, in the light of modern experience, might well be revised to read: There's nothing sure but death and higher taxes.

For while mortality tables show that the nation has been doing something about death in the last forty years, tax tabulations are something else. Taxpayers who speak wistfully about "the good old days" may be reminded of how good they were by statistics compiled for the 1946 printing of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Articles on taxation prepared by Walter W. Heller, of the United States Treasury Department, and Dr. Mabel Newcomer, professor of economics at Vassar college, point out that between the administrations of Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin Roosevelt, the American tax bill for federal, state and local governments increased from $1,387,000,000 in 1902 to $52,195,000,000 in 1944.

Americans who have lived through two wars and the administrations of seven presidents, thus are paying thirty-seven times as much taxes today as they did early in the century. During that time the state and local government tax bill went up from $861,000,000 to $10,067,000,000, almost a twelve-fold increase, while federal taxes increased from $526,000,000 in 1902 to $42,128,000,000 in 1944—or eighty times their total in the time of Theodore Roosevelt. And this despite the fact that in 1944 the United States collected in taxes only fifty-seven per cent of its actual expenditures, with the remainder put on the cuff for posterity.

All of which poses the question: How high can the tax rate go before it becomes an obstacle to incentive and production?

Speaker Sam Rayburn is worried because the House "for the past six months has been loaded down and seething with utility lobbyists" seeking to "kill off" certain legislation. The speaker and other members might try ignoring them as an antidote.

"Franco-Spanish Tension Grows"—the most confusing headline of the year. For, in this case, the party of the first part, Franco (the French) are opposed to the leader of the party of the second part, who is, as you know, Franco.

SOMETHING ELSE THERE

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

If I correctly recall, it was Bliss Perry who once made the statement that no painter of Abraham Lincoln had ever succeeded in portraying the real Lincoln—"there was something else there."

Too many painters seek to get a "likeness." This is what a photographer produces. But the great artist seeks for something else, something that he rarely, if ever, attains—the soul of the sitter. It is easier to get the something else from a flower!

Abraham Lincoln would have smiled at flattery. You can't flatter character. You can, however, fail to fathom its worth and its grandeur. Painters all too often search for another objective.

Not long ago I spied, in an exhibition, a sketch of Jo Davidson, by his wife. The moment I looked upon it I said: "That's Jo Davidson!" It was. You see, his wife knew him, loved him, and had put "that something" into her sketch that most artists fail to get. There is nothing so difficult to paint as a portrait. It may "look like" the subject, but there is always "something else there" in the make-up of the subject that is elusive and rarely fathomable. I think Sargent got it in his great full-length painting of Edwin Booth, which now hangs in the club-house of The Players, in New York; also in his painting of Joseph Jefferson, as "Bob Acres." But what a rare achievement!

I have never looked upon a portrait of Washington that made me feel the greatness of the man, no matter how perfect the technique. In George Grey Barnard's "Lincoln" and in Rodin's "Victor Hugo" that "something else" is there. And you will sense it in that magnificent bronze of "Walt Whitman" by Jo Davidson.

We are cemented to those friends of ours who make no display but who have that "something else there" that we adopt as our own, because that same something is what we ourselves own and feel instinctively. I once read that a painter with an unclean mind could not paint a pure face. The artist, like the poet, becomes great only as he is able to execute, or write, the "something else there."

THIS CALLS FOR SOMETHING BESIDES JUST MORAL SUPPORT

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Secretary of War Patterson Is Fearful Of Trouble in Trieste, Pearson Reveals

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The War department isn't saying so publicly, but the spot which worries Secretary of War Patterson most in dynamite-laden Europe is a small area at the head of the Adriatic where two British and American divisions are almost looking down the muzzles of eight superior Jugoslav divisions.

That trouble spot is Trieste. Still held by British and American troops, it is expected that the Jugoslavs, backed by a huge Russian army in the rear, may move in almost any time.

If and when this happens, it means just one of two things:

1. Either American and British troops turn tail and evacuate, with great loss of prestige throughout Europe and a caving in of United Nations ideals; or

2. If American and British troops resist, it means war.

Huge Red Army

What makes the situation more alarming is the fact that the Russians are maintaining a huge army of 1,100,000 men in Hungary. This tremendous concentration of troops in a country of only 15,000,000 people obviously is not necessary for internal policing. Furthermore, this army consists of new, fresh troops and is located just south of Lake Balaton, an area from which it could quickly reach Trieste.

However, the eight divisions of Jugoslav troops, bristling with lend-lease equipment, would be sufficient to smash the skeletonized Anglo-American forces in Trieste even without Russian assistance. At present the Jugoslav army is drawn up about forty miles from Trieste on the so-called "Morgan line"—established by British Gen. Morgan as the dividing point between British-American occupation and the Jugoslavs.

If this superior Jugoslav force starts advancing on Trieste, American troops face the alternative of stepping aside or opening fire. In the latter case, United States forces would be annihilated.

Politically, the situation is extremely complicated, with one important political point on the side of the Jugoslavs. Back in 1940, before Jugoslavia was invaded by Germany, King Peter was promised that his country could have Trieste after the war, if it resisted the Nazi invasion.

Inheritance from Lost War

Actually the city of Trieste is dominated by Italians, though population around it is largely Jugoslav. Before the last war it was Austro-Hungarian, but went to Italy under the Paris peace conference — an award the Jugoslavs always resented. Later, the Jugoslavs were even more resentful when Italian Fascists under D'Annunzno seized Fiume, which Woodrow Wilson decreed should be Jugoslav.

So today Marshal Tito is out to get not only Fiume, which he already has, but Trieste and large areas of Italian territory around Gorizia, Udine, and the Venezia-Euganea, where the population is largely Italian.

Probably there would have been more American support for the Jugoslavs were it not for the fact that Trieste plays a key role in the old Russian aim to take over the Balkans and dominate the Eastern Mediterranean.

In this respect, Stalin is carrying out the age-old ambition of the Czars. He has gone further than the czars, however, and is demanding a share in Italy's North African colonies, also control of the Dodecanese islands from which he can guard the western entrance to the Dardanelles, and finally a base on the Red sea from which he can point a revolver at the British lifeline through Suez.

So Trieste, and the skeletonized American force which remains there so precariously, is only one chapter in the great struggle for power between the British empire of old and the new budding empire of Soviet Russia.

Note—A strong United Nations could keep Trieste as an international port for use by all nations; also could create trusteeships for Eastern Mediterranean areas so they would not be pawns in the hands of either Britain or Russia.

Hatton Sumners's Pajamas

Congressman Hatton Sumners, of Dallas, Texas, who is now bowing out of Congress, is chiefly famous for his championship of states rights and his Supreme court battle against Roosevelt.

To the small circle which knew him well, however, Sumners was better known because of his habit of not taking off his pajamas during the daytime, if he was going to spend the coming night away from home.

A group of cabinet ladies discovered this eccentricity one afternoon during a cocktail party in the apartment of Speaker Sam Rayburn. Sam's Texas colleague, Hatton Sumners, together with Congressman Howard Smith, who lives just across the river in Virginia, were at the party, and while talking to a group of ladies, one of the latter happened to look down at Judge Sumner's pants leg. There she noticed a white garment with red stripes peeping out from the bottom of his trousers. At first she thought that some of the congressman's interior adjustments had come loose.

Embarrassed, she said nothing. But finally as more of the white garment began to protrude from under the congressman's pants leg, she diplomatically called it to his attention.

Congressman Sumners, however, was not at all concerned. He took the matter in his stride.

"Oh that," he said, holding out one leg, "is just my pajamas. I always keep my pajamas on when I'm going to spend the night with Howard Smith across the river."

Lewis in Real Estate

One tipoff on just how vigorously John L. Lewis plans to enter his battle to recapture the CIO came out at the A.F. of L. executive board beeting in Miami, where the bushy-browed labor thespian joined his former enemies in a holy war against his former friends, Phil Murray and the CIO.

One of Lewis's first moves was to persuade the A.F. of L. to move out of its shabby thirty-year-old headquarters to a modern streamlined building near the White House.

Lewis was named chairman of an A.F. of L. committee to acquire the new building. Some years ago John paid a quarter of a million for the University club, once the home of Washington elite, and made it his United Mine Workers headquarters.

But since then Phil Murray has established an office two blocks nearer the White House.

Senator Suggests A New Meeting

Editor The Cumberland News:

Dear Sir:

In last Thursday or Friday's issue of your paper, a letter from ex-Senator Clifford Friend, relative to the Forestry Conservancy District act, was published.

I will be grateful to you, if you can conveniently find the space to publish the enclosed letter, which is a copy of my answer to Mr. Friend's letter.

BERNARD I. GONDER,
State Senator

Oakland,
March 11, 1946.

Mr. Clifford Friend
Accident, Maryland.

Dear Mr. Friend:

I am rather surprised at noting the contents of your letter of March 4, relative to the Maryland Forest Conservancy District act. If this act did not meet with your approval, and you had any suggestions or opposition you, and other timber operators, had the opportunity on February 22, at the special forestry meeting in the Grand theatre, Friendsville, to register any complaints, and to offer suggestions for improvement of our forestry regulations. You failed to attend this meeting to publicly express your opinion.

It is possible that we may call another meeting, such as this, in the near future. If we do so, you and other timber operators, who are not satisfied with this act, will have the opportunity to register your complaints, which I will be very glad to take up with the commission of forest and parks, at it's next meeting.

It is a fact that ninety-five per cent of the timber operators in the state of Maryland have registered in accordance with this law. This clarifies my statement in a recent issue of the Republican, which you have attempted to misconstrue by saying, "that all but perhaps five per cent of our timber operators in the county have registered."

Yours very truly,

BERNARD I. GONDER,
State Senator.

Russian Tactics Alienate Friends, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Most important in the development of relations between Russia and the outside world is the bitter denunciation of former Prime Minister Churchill by the official Moscow newspaper "Pravda."

Although the text of the Churchill address at Fulton, Mo., was not printed or broadcast in Russia, it was apparently read very minutely by the official group. The fact that the Russians used "Pravda" to answer and that the article was couched, according to a Moscow dispatch, in "bitter, vigorous language such as is seldom used in that paper" and more in line with prewar castigations of Churchill as a "hardened reactionary, war monger and hypocrite" will awaken Americans to an awareness of a strange phenomenon. It is that the Russians completely misunderstand freedom of speech and think that the best way to conduct a persuasive debate is to call the other fellow bad names.

Wrong Way Chosen

If the Russian propagandists are trying to right themselves with world opinion, they have chosen the wrong way to accomplish it. One certain way to make friends for the Churchill viewpoint is to attack the motives of the man who led Britain through a victorious war. The world will not soon cast away the views of a former prime minister of Britain as being aimed solely at bringing on another conflict.

It is also regrettable that the Moscow organ of the Soviet government—its official newspaper—should be denouncing Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, as making "false speeches on democracy."

Friends of Russia will be alienated by such tactics. Russia has many more friends in the United States than she evidently knows about, but she can lose them rapidly if she assumes that the American people cannot see through the accusations of official propaganda or the red herrings which are periodically dragged across the trails of world diplomacy, such as appear in the Russian note about Bulgaria.

Valuable Time Wasted

Russia is wasting valuable time that she could be using to forge a real friendship with the American people. Misguided advisers are apparently telling her that she can divide the American people by bitter denunciations of those who choose to speak their views frankly.

There can be no doubt that Americans recognize the weaknesses of British imperialism as well as do the Russians. There can be no doubt also that a substantial segment of American opinion is flexible on the subject of removing the "spheres of influence" in Europe, whether they be British or Russian. Yet the wrong way to solve the problems created by these spheres or to achieve true "democracy," which term the Russian organs of opinion use so loosely, is not to call everybody who disagrees with Russia a fascist or a war monger or an enemy of Moscow.

War Talk Stimulated

If the Soviet is bent on ignoring the facts of international life, notwithstanding the genuine efforts of peace-loving statesmen in other countries, if Moscow persists in arguing that everything Russia wants is hers and every agreement must be interpreted as she construes it, then what former Prime Minister Churchill begged for may come true sooner than the Russians realize. For if the American government finds the Russian tactics inscrutable and there is no genuine interchange of views or substantial progress toward making the United Nations Organization successful, it will not be long before the world will be discussing bigger and bigger armaments and the time or place for the outbreak of a third world war.

What is particularly disheartening is that the Russian diplomats and propagandists can so soon forget that the United States sent four million men to open a "second front" to save Russia from the Nazi armies. If the United States had stayed neutral, there would be no soviet in existence today, but a Nazi regime in Moscow. All that is asked is that the Russians temper their denuciation of Mr. Churchill, and others who served the Allied cause, with a bit of gratitude for the thousands of Americans and British who died to beat Germany—from the fruits of which victory the Moscow government has profitted and benefitted so extensively.

Feeding Task Is Short-Range Job, Pettengill Says

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Despite Mrs. Roosevelt's observation that the children in the Reich "actually have chubby faces and pink cheeks," there is little doubt that millions all through Europe are destitute. We must help with clothing, food, seed, medicine, farm tools, etc. This should be a gift—not a "loan." The fact that Mr. Hoover's ability in this sort of work has finally been called to use justifies greater confidence in the effort.

Whoever is at fault, hunger can not wait. Nevertheless, it should be kept in mind that much of Europe's distress flows from the acts of governments since the surrender of the conquered. That includes our own government. We have put America's signature to the shameful partition of Poland—an ally; we have agreed to the forced migration of millions of people who are torn by bayonets from homes where they had lived for centuries. Many of these poor people are those we said we went to war to free.

Appeasement a Black Page

The appeasement of Stalin by Mr. Roosevelt at Yalta and Teheran, later ratified by Mr. Truman at Potsdam, has made us a party to results that will forever be a black page in our history. The only record of postwar rehabilitation we can be truly proud of is that of MacArthur in Japan.

From the standpoint of sound American policy in the future, the problem has two aspects. The short range job is to relieve immediate distress. The long range policy is that Europe must be told to solve her own problems. The idea that we can forever fight Europe's wars and then feed, clothe and police her is fantastic. It is beyond our strength. We owe more than all our allies. The proposed "loans" of $7,000,000,000 to Europe would build 1,000,000 homes in this country at $7,000 each, housing 4,000,000 veterans, their wives and babies. It would rebuild every church in this country if they were all bombed into nothingness. It would rebuild every public elementary and high school.

Medicine Men Busy

We have been taken in by professional do-gooders who slice onions in our eyes to make sure that we will keep them on the payroll. Henry Wallace, for example, wants twice as much of our own money as his department ever had before, so he can spend it to save us from ourselves.

The political medicine men and voodoo-doctors charm us into fancying that we are halfwits and must let them administer our affairs—for a fee! We have been taken for quite a ride. But actually there is a limit to our capacity to play Lady Bountiful. Do you know that for more than twenty years we have actually imported more food than we have exported? Meantime, our population grows and our land erodes. The idea that we have limitless reserves of fertile soil is a myth. To share our wealth with the world's teeming millions would mean that our own one-third "ill-fed, ill-housed and ill-clad" (and how ill-housed we are at last!) would have their standard of living cut in half.

Population Presses Hard

For all the world's people to have the same ration of meat would mean that we would have to cut our consumption two-thirds. A quart of milk to every Hottentot would require that the world double its acreage of farm land now used to feed two billion people.

Population is already pressing hard on the world's food. As I have previously pointed out, this is the real cause of modern war. In a century, Europe has raised 298,000,000 additional mouths to feed; Asia 563,000,000 more, and the Western Hemisphere has grown from 20,000,000 to 255,000,000.

For 300 years, Europe's surplus population flowed over into new lands. Immigration policies, not likely to be repealed, have closed that safety valve. Europe and Asia must now either reduce their population growth or their standard of living. For us to assume the role of Atlas carrying the world on our shoulders is folly unspeakable. Read "The World's Hunger," by Pearson and Harper, Cornell University Press.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I heard something via the grapevine yesterday. Of course, in Hollywood, W. C. Fields is always the first to hear those things . . . He's right there under the vine squeezing the grapes.

But the story goes that they've developed a new tonic to make hair grow . . . There'll be a short pause while we listen to the toupees dropping.

Of course, everybody worries about losing his hair. My father lost his when he was very young, but they always shave 'em when they enter Sing Sing.

My brother heard that the secret of growing hair was circulation . . . So he went out and tried to get some new customers for his paper route.

I had a bald friend who grafted the hair of his chest to his head. It turned out to be very embarrassing, though . . . When he wanted to show off his physique, he took a deep breath and threw out his head.

But they say this new tonic will grow hair on a billiard ball. That I'd like to see! Imagine 'em saying "eight ball in the side pocket with a part down the middle!"

Even so, it must be pretty powerful stuff . . . They showed me the bottle, and I had to shave it before I could read the label.

Of course, the guy who invented it is so bald that when he raises his eyebrows you can see the wrinkles go up his forehead and crawl down under the back of his collar.

Intriguing Sea Food Airplane Service

AN ITEM, intriguing to Cumberlanders, has turned up in the news reports. It relates that three times weekly an airplane owned by the West Virginia Aix Express takes off from the Baltimore Municipal Airport with a load of sea food, and in less than three hours the housewives of Beckley, W. Va., are stampeding the markets to buy sea food as fresh as that being offered in the Baltimore markets the same day.

This unique service, brain child of a small-town airport operator is to be extended within a short time to Charleston, Bluefield and Princeton, thereby affording a large segment of the population of the somewhat isolated mountainous southern section of West Virginia, with respect to sea food, an opportunity of learning what it really tastes like.

The West Virginia Air Express came into being in early February when H. L. Sessler, manager of the Beckley Municipal Airport, found his mouth watering for the taste of fresh sea food. Assuming that other Beckley residents might have similar gustatory yearnings, Sessler contracted with a Baltimore firm for 5,000 pounds of sea food and sent the plane there to pick it up.

Beckley marketmen co-operated and plugged the fresh sea food with advertisements in the local papers and with large display signs in their store windows, and the cargo was sold out in a few hours.

Encouraged by this reception and by the word-of-mouth advertising which consumers of the first shipment spread around the town, Sessler sent his plane back a few days later for another shipment.

Now he is sending the plane to Baltimore three times a week and on each trip it is going back to West Virginia with a capacity load of 3,000 pounds of fish, oysters and lobsters.

Sessler is at present using a Noorduyn Norseman twin-engined plane, which, designed to carry nine passengers, has been stripped of most of the seats to provide space for a cargo limited to 3,000 pounds. But, encouraged by the success of the enterprise, he has purchsaed a Douglas DC-3, which he hopes to put into operation in ten days or two weeks.

This Western Maryland section is not so isolated from the sea food supply as the section in southern West Virginia has been, having quick rail connections that bring it here; but the community might be as eager to consume more of it as the housewives of Beckley, W. Va. Hence, the question arises as to why Sessler might not be induced to operate a sea food plane to Cumberland from Baltimore, or why other airlines operating and to operate here might not be similarly interested. Maybe this is something to which the chamber of commerce might well give attention.

Subsidy-Dropping Formula Is Needed

CONGRESS now has an official estimate of what it will cost to continue the subsidy program for another year beyond June 30. The bill will amount to $2,051,000,000, according to a statement presented to the House Banking committee by James F. Brownlee, deputy to Economic Stabilizer Bowles.

This is a huge sum of money for the government to spend to stimulate the production of certain foods and other commodities and at the same time maintain present price ceilings. It may not seem large when compared with the sums laid out to fight the war, but it would amount to a per capita tax of $40 on every employed person in the country if it were spread evenly over American workers.

So the subsidy program represents no small burden on the taxpayers and Congress should consider carefully whether the two billions of dollars involved will be well spent.

Mr. Brownlee declared that to end subsidies would bring an increase of eight per cent in food costs next year and of three and one-half per cent in over-all living costs. That would be more, he said, than the anti-inflation program could stand. Subsidies are imperative, in his opinion, to hold back "a whirl of inflation."

The government's figures should be carefully checked, and it would be worth while if some formula could be devised for dropping subsidies as soon as practicable. That would be a good way to make sure that they do not become a permanent fixture.

Hitting Americans In a Tender Spot

WHEN you take the sandwich away from the American citizen, or cut it in half, you are hitting him in a tender spot. The sandwich, originated by the Earl of Sandwich, after whom the Sandwich islands, now the Hawaiian islands, were named, despite its English origin, has developed into a distinctively American institution. Classed with it is an even more distinctively American institution, the "hot dog."

How many millions of Americans depend upon the sandwich as the basis for at least one meal a day—and for many it is an added snack at other times—is probably incalculable, but without doubt the number is enormous and embraces a very large part of the population. And what with the hustle and bustle of American life, it has passed from a novelty and a mere incidental to a real necessity.

It can thus be appreciated that the halving of the sandwich as recommended by President Truman's Famine Emergency Committee would result in a vast saving of bread and buns, and the need for that is painted as imperative. But the next question is whether Americans, who doubtless rest in the belief that the eating of a sandwich represents in itself a real saving of food, will respond to the recommendation.

It will be a hard and difficult and perhaps impossible sacrifice. It may be well wondered whether the sandwich-cutting plan as a bureaucratic device that might have been made more effective in other food-saving schemes will actually work out. Will the sandwich-eating American forego his necessary lunch, or brunch, or whatever it may be called, even in the face of the food reduction need? Will he merely order two sandwiches where hitherto he has ordered but one, and combine the two pieces of bread with a double slice of ham or beef or double portion of spread, thus revelling in a double, or giant, or super sandwich? And with that possibility will naturally arise the question whether the plan of halving the sandwich is not another one of those bureaucratic hidden schemes to fool the people with the inflation that is being translated into the growing cost of living.

Time only will tell. It may work out as planned, or like many of the foolish bureaucratic efforts at ostensible savings that came upon us with the war and were tolerated only for the sake of the war effort it may not. But, considering the general utility of the sandwich in American life, one can be excused for entertaining doubts that it will. In such case, some other plan will have to be tried out.

Anyway, the suggested plan is a stark reminder that this food business is really getting serious in this country.

Tax Zooming Record Poses a Question

THERE'S NOTHING SURE but death and taxes, according to the old saw which, in the light of modern experience, might well be revised to read: There's nothing sure but death and higher taxes.

For while mortality tables show that the nation has been doing something about death in the last forty years, tax tabulations are something else. Taxpayers who speak wistfully about "the good old days" may be reminded of how good they were by statistics compiled for the 1946 printing of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Articles on taxation prepared by Walter W. Heller, of the United States Treasury Department, and Dr. Mabel Newcomer, professor of economics at Vassar college, point out that between the administrations of Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin Roosevelt, the American tax bill for federal, state and local governments increased from $1,387,000,000 in 1902 to $52,195,000,000 in 1944.

Americans who have lived through two wars and the administrations of seven presidents, thus are paying thirty-seven times as much taxes today as they did early in the century. During that time the state and local government tax bill went up from $861,000,000 to $10,067,000,000, almost a twelve-foid increase, while federal taxes increased from $526,000,000 in 1902 to $42,128,000,000 in 1944—or eighty times their total in the time of Theodore Roosevelt. And this despite the fact that in 1944 the United States collected in taxes only fifty-seven per cent of its actual expenditures, with the remainder put on the cuff for posterity.

All of which poses the question: How high can the tax rate go before it becomes an obstacle to incentive and production?

Speaker Sam Rayburn is worried because the House "for the past six months has been loaded down and seething with utility lobbyists" seeking to "kill off" certain legislation. The speaker and other members might try ignoring them as an antidote.

"Franco-Spanish Tension Grows"—the most confusing headline of the year. For, in this case, the party of the first part, Franco (the French) are opposed to the leader of the party of the second part, who is, as you know, Franco.

Wrinkles, says a New York hair stylist, are attractive. Anyone who can successfully sell that idea should rank as the world's supersalesman.

Every citizen is entitled to the pursuit of happiness, but the strike situation has made it hard for him to pursue it in a motor car.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

If I correctly recall, it was Bliss Perry who once made the statement that no painter of Abraham Lincoln had ever succeeded in portraying the real Lincoln—"there was something else there."

Too many painters seek to get a "likeness." This is what a photographer produces. But the great artist seeks for something else, something that he rarely, if ever, attains—the soul of the sitter. It is easier to get the something else from a flower!

Abraham Lincoln would have smiled at flattery. You can't flatter character. You can, however, fail to fathom its worth and its grandeur. Painters all too often search for another objective.

Not long ago I spied, in an exhibition, a sketch of Jo Davidson, by his wife. The moment I looked upon it I said: "That's Jo Davidson!" It was. You see, his wife knew him, loved him, and had put "that something" into her sketch that most artists fail to get. There is nothing so difficult to paint as a portrait. It may "look like" the subject, but there is always "something else there" in the make-up of the subject that is elusive and rarely fathomable. I think Sargent got it in his great full-length painting of Edwin Booth, which now hangs in the club-house of The Players, in New York; also in his painting of Joseph Jefferson, as "Bob Acres." But what a rare achievement!

I have never looked upon a portrait of Washington that made me feel the greatness of the man, no matter how perfect the technique. In George Grey Barnard's "Lincoln" and in Rodin's "Victor Hugo" that "something else" is there. And you will sense it in that magnificent bronze of "Walt Whitman" by Jo Davidson.

We are cemented to those friends of ours who make no display but who have that "something else there" that we adopt as our own, because that same something is what we ourselves own and feel instinctively. I once read that a painter with an unelean mind could not paint a pure face. The artist, like the poet, becomes great only as he is able to execute, or write, the "something else there."

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The War department isn't saying so publicly, but the spot which worries Secretary of War Patterson most in dynamite-laden Europe is a small area at the head of the Adriatic where two British and American divisions are almost looking down the muzzles of eight superior Jugoslav divisions.

That trouble spot is Trieste. Still held by British and American troops, it is expected that the Jugoslavs, backed by a huge Russian army in the rear, may move in almost any time.

If and when this happens, it means just one of two things:

1. Either American and British troops turn tail and evacuate, with great loss of prestige throughout Europe and a caving in of United Nations ideals; or

2. If American and British troops resist, it means war.

Huge Red Army

What makes the situation more alarming is the fact that the Russians are maintaining a huge army of 1,100,000 men in Hungary. This tremendous concentration of troops in a country of only 15,000,000 people obviously is not necessary for internal policing. Furthermore, this army consists of new, fresh troops and is located just south of Lake Balaton, an area from which it could quickly reach Trieste.

However, the eight divisions of Jugoslav troops, bristling with lend-lease equipment, would be sufficient to smash the skeletonized Anglo-American forces in Trieste even without Russian assistance. At present the Jugoslav army is drawn up about forty miles from Trieste on the so-called "Morgan line"—established by British Gen. Morgan as the dividing point between British-American occupation and the Jugoslavs.

If this superior Jugoslav force starts advancing on Trieste, American troops face the alternative of stepping aside or opening fire. In the latter case, United States forces would be annihilated.

Politically, the situation is extremely complicated, with one important political point on the side of the Jugoslavs. Back in 1940, before Jugoslavia was invaded by Germany, King Peter was promised that his country could have Trieste after the war, if it resisted the Nazi invasion.

Inheritance from Lost War

Actually the city of Trieste is dominated by Italians, though population around it is largely Jugoslav. Before the last war it was Austro-Hungarian, but went to Italy under the Paris peace conference — an award the Jugoslavs always resented. Later, the Jugoslavs were even more resentful when Italian Fascists under D'Annunzno seized Fiume, which Woodrow Wilson decreed should be Jugoslav.

So today Marshal Tito is out to get not only Fiume, which he already has, but Trieste and large areas of Italian territory around Gorizia, Udine, and the Venezia-Euganea, where the population is largely Italian.

Probably there would have been more American support for the Jugoslavs were it not for the fact that Trieste plays a key role in the old Russian aim to take over the Balkans and dominate the Eastern Mediterranean.

In this respect, Stalin is carrying out the age-old ambition of the Czars. He has gone further than the czars, however, and is demanding a share in Italy's North African colonies, also control of the Dodecanese islands from which he can guard the western entrance to the Dardanelles, and finally a base on the Red sea from which he can point a revolver at the British lifeline through Suez.

So Trieste, and the skeletonized American force which remains there so precariously, is only one chapter in the great struggle for power between the British empire of old and the new budding empire of Soviet Russia.

Note—A strong United Nations could keep Trieste as an international port for use by all nations; also could create trusteeships for Eastern Mediterranean areas so they would not be pawns in the hands of either Britain or Russia.

Hatton Sumners's Pajamas

Congressman Hatton Sumners, of Dallas, Texas, who is now bowing out of Congress, is chiefly famous for his championship of states rights and his Supreme court battle against Roosevelt.

To the small circle which knew him well, however, Sumners was better known because of his habit of not taking off his pajamas during the daytime, if he was going to spend the coming night away from home.

A group of cabinet ladies discovered this eccentricity one afternoon during a cocktail party in the apartment of Speaker Sam Rayburn. Sam's Texas colleague, Hatton Sumners, together with Congressman Howard Smith, who lives just across the river in Virginia, were at the party, and while talking to a group of ladies, one of the latter happened to look down at Judge Sumner's pants leg. There she noticed a white garment with red stripes peeping out from the bottom of his trousers. At first she thought that some of the congressman's interior adjustments had come loose.

Embarrassed, she said nothing. But finally as more of the white garment began to protrude from under the congressman's pants leg, she diplomatically called it to his attention.

Congressman Sumners, however, was not at all concerned. He took the matter in his stride.

"Oh that," he said, holding out one leg, "is just my pajamas. I always keep my pajamas on when I'm going to spend the night with Howard Smith across the river."

Lewis in Real Estate

One tipoff on just how vigorously John L. Lewis plans to enter his battle to recapture the CIO came out at the A.F. of L. executive board beeting in Miami, where the bushy-browed labor thespian joined his former enemies in a holy war against his former friends, Phil Murray and the CIO.

One of Lewis's first moves was to persuade the A.F. of L. to move out of its shabby thirty-year-old headquarters to a modern streamlined building near the White House.

Lewis was named chairman of an A.F. of L. committee to acquire the new building. Some years ago John paid a quarter of a million for the University club, once the home of Washington elite, and made it his United Mine Workers headquarters.

But since then Phil Murray has established an office two blocks nearer the White House.

Senator Suggests A New Meeting

Editor The Cumberland News:

Dear Sir:

In last Thursday or Friday's issue of your paper, a letter from ex-Senator Clifford Friend, relative to the Forestry Conservancy District act, was published.

I will be grateful to you, if you can conveniently find the space to publish the enclosed letter, which is a copy of my answer to Mr. Friend's letter.

BERNARD I. GONDER,
State Senator

Oakland,
March 11, 1946.

Mr. Clifford Friend
Accident, Maryland.

Dear Mr. Friend:

I am rather surprised at noting the contents of your letter of March 4, relative to the Maryland Forest Conservancy District act. If this act did not meet with your approval, and you had any suggestions or opposition you, and other timber operators, had the opportunity on February 22, at the special forestry meeting in the Grand theatre, Friendsville, to register any complaints, and to offer suggestions for improvement of our forestry regulations. You failed to attend this meeting to publicly express your opinion.

It is possible that we may call another meeting, such as this, in the near future. If we do so, you and other timber operators, who are not satisfied with this act, will have the opportunity to register your complaints, which I will be very glad to take up with the commission of forest and parks, at it's next meeting.

It is a fact that ninety-five per cent of the timber operators in the state of Maryland have registered in accordance with this law. This clarifies my statement in a recent issue of the Republican, which you have attempted to misconstrue by saying, "that all but perhaps five per cent of our timber operators in the county have registered."

Yours very truly,

BERNARD I. GONDER,
State Senator.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Most important in the development of relations between Russia and the outside world is the bitter denunciation of former Prime Minister Churchill by the official Moscow newspaper "Pravda."

Although the text of the Churchill address at Fulton, Mo., was not printed or broadcast in Russia, it was apparently read very minutely by the official group. The fact that the Russians used "Pravda" to answer and that the article was couched, according to a Moscow dispatch, in "bitter, vigorous language such as is seldom used in that paper" and more in line with prewar castigations of Churchill as a "hardened reactionary, war monger and hypocrite" will awaken Americans to an awareness of a strange phenomenon. It is that the Russians completely misunderstand freedom of speech and think that the best way to conduct a persuasive debate is to call the other fellow bad names.

Wrong Way Chosen

If the Russian propagandists are trying to right themselves with world opinion, they have chosen the wrong way to accomplish it. One certain way to make friends for the Churchill viewpoint is to attack the motives of the man who led Britain through a victorious war. The world will not soon cast away the views of a former prime minister of Britain as being aimed solely at bringing on another conflict.

It is also regrettable that the Moscow organ of the Soviet government—its official newspaper—should be denouncing Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, as making "false speeches on democracy."

Friends of Russia will be alienated by such tactics. Russia has many more friends in the United States than she evidently knows about, but she can lose them rapidly if she assumes that the American people cannot see through the accusations of official propaganda or the red herrings which are periodically dragged across the trails of world diplomacy, such as appear in the Russian note about Bulgaria.

Valuable Time Wasted

Russia is wasting valuable time that she could be using to forge a real friendship with the American people. Misguided advisers are apparently telling her that she can divide the American people by bitter denunciations of those who choose to speak their views frankly.

There can be no doubt that Americans recognize the weaknesses of British imperialism as well as do the Russians. There can be no doubt also that a substantial segment of American opinion is flexible on the subject of removing the "spheres of influence" in Europe, whether they be British or Russian. Yet the wrong way to solve the problems created by these spheres or to achieve true "democracy," which term the Russian organs of opinion use so loosely, is not to call everybody who disagrees with Russia a fascist or a war monger or an enemy of Moscow.

War Talk Stimulated

If the Soviet is bent on ignoring the facts of international life, notwithstanding the genuine efforts of peace-loving statesmen in other countries, if Moscow persists in arguing that everything Russia wants is hers and every agreement must be interpreted as she construes it, then what former Prime Minister Churchill begged for may come true sooner than the Russians realize. For if the American government finds the Russian tactics inscrutable and there is no genuine interchange of views or substantial progress toward making the United Nations Organization successful, it will not be long before the world will be discussing bigger and bigger armaments and the time or place for the outbreak of a third world war.

What is particularly disheartening is that the Russian diplomats and propagandists can so soon forget that the United States sent four million men to open a "second front" to save Russia from the Nazi armies. If the United States had stayed neutral, there would be no soviet in existence today, but a Nazi regime in Moscow. All that is asked is that the Russians temper their denuciation of Mr. Churchill, and others who served the Allied cause, with a bit of gratitude for the thousands of Americans and British who died to beat Germany—from the fruits of which victory the Moscow government has profitted and benefitted so extensively.

Feeding Task Is Short-Range Job, Pettengill Says

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Despite Mrs. Roosevelt's observation that the children in the Reich "actually have chubby faces and pink cheeks," there is little doubt that millions all through Europe are destitute. We must help with clothing, food, seed, medicine, farm tools, etc. This should be a gift—not a "loan." The fact that Mr. Hoover's ability in this sort of work has finally been called to use justifies greater confidence in the effort.

Whoever is at fault, hunger can not wait. Nevertheless, it should be kept in mind that much of Europe's distress flows from the acts of governments since the surrender of the conquered. That includes our own government. We have put America's signature to the shameful partition of Poland—an ally; we have agreed to the forced migration of millions of people who are torn by bayonets from homes where they had lived for centuries. Many of these poor people are those we said we went to war to free.

Appeasement a Black Page

The appeasement of Stalin by Mr. Roosevelt at Yalta and Teheran, later ratified by Mr. Truman at Potsdam, has made us a party to results that will forever be a black page in our history. The only record of postwar rehabilitation we can be truly proud of is that of MacArthur in Japan.

From the standpoint of sound American policy in the future, the problem has two aspects. The short range job is to relieve immediate distress. The long range policy is that Europe must be told to solve her own problems. The idea that we can forever fight Europe's wars and then feed, clothe and police her is fantastic. It is beyond our strength. We owe more than all our allies. The proposed "loans" of $7,000,000,000 to Europe would build 1,000,000 homes in this country at $7,000 each, housing 4,000,000 veterans, their wives and babies. It would rebuild every church in this country if they were all bombed into nothingness. It would rebuild every public elementary and high school.

Medicine Men Busy

We have been taken in by professional do-gooders who slice onions in our eyes to make sure that we will keep them on the payroll. Henry Wallace, for example, wants twice as much of our own money as his department ever had before, so he can spend it to save us from ourselves.

The political medicine men and voodoo-doctors charm us into fancying that we are halfwits and must let them administer our affairs—for a fee! We have been taken for quite a ride. But actually there is a limit to our capacity to play Lady Bountiful. Do you know that for more than twenty years we have actually imported more food than we have exported? Meantime, our population grows and our land erodes. The idea that we have limitless reserves of fertile soil is a myth. To share our wealth with the world's teeming millions would mean that our own one-third "ill-fed, ill-housed and ill-clad" (and how ill-housed we are at last!) would have their standard of living cut in half.

Population Presses Hard

For all the world's people to have the same ration of meat would mean that we would have to cut our consumption two-thirds. A quart of milk to every Hottentot would require that the world double its acreage of farm land now used to feed two billion people.

Population is already pressing hard on the world's food. As I have previously pointed out, this is the real cause of modern war. In a century, Europe has raised 298,000,000 additional mouths to feed; Asia 563,000,000 more, and the Western Hemisphere has grown from 20,000,000 to 255,000,000.

For 300 years, Europe's surplus population flowed over into new lands. Immigration policies, not likely to be repealed, have closed that safety valve. Europe and Asia must now either reduce their population growth or their standard of living. For us to assume the role of Atlas carrying the world on our shoulders is folly unspeakable. Read "The World's Hunger," by Pearson and Harper, Cornell University Press.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I heard something via the grapevine yesterday. Of course, in Hollywood, W. C. Fields is always the first to hear those things . . . He's right there under the vine squeezing the grapes.

But the story goes that they've developed a new tonic to make hair grow . . . There'll be a short pause while we listen to the toupees dropping.

Of course, everybody worries about losing his hair. My father lost his when he was very young, but they always shave 'em when they enter Sing Sing.

My brother heard that the secret of growing hair was circulation . . . So he went out and tried to get some new customers for his paper route.

I had a bald friend who grafted the hair of his chest to his head. It turned out to be very embarrassing, though . . . When he wanted to show off his physique, he took a deep breath and threw out his head.

But they say this new tonic will grow hair on a billiard ball. That I'd like to see! Imagine 'em saying "eight ball in the side pocket with a part down the middle!"

Even so, it must be pretty powerful stuff . . . They showed me the bottle, and I had to shave it before I could read the label.

Of course, the guy who invented it is so bald that when he raises his eyebrows you can see the wrinkles go up his forehead and crawl down under the back of his collar.

Scattered Stocks Make Headway But Many Leaders Drift Lower

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—Scattered stocks made some headway in today's market although many leaders continued to drift lower in the slowest dealings for about seven months.

Bearish aspects of foreign developments and widespread strike stalemates continued to inspire some selling and keep numerous customers in neutral territory.

Transfers of 720,000 shares were a low total for a full session since last August 8. They compared with 880,000 Monday.

Paramount Pictures added three and one-fourth, and Atlantic Coast Line, Eastern Kodak, Douglas Aircraft and Union Carbide were up about two each. Lesser gainers included Twentieth Century-Fox, Pepsi-Cola, United States Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, Hudson Motors, Graham-Paige Goodrich, Glenn Martin, Boeing, Lockheed, American Telephone, Electric Power and Light, Kennecott, Du Pont, Santa Fe, New York Central, Northern Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Losers were General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, International Harvester, Deere, Caterpillar Tractor, Sperry, Western Union "A", Consolidated Edison, Columbia Gas, Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, Westinghouse, American Can, Johns-Manville, Philip Morris, United States Gypsum, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Southern Railway and International Nickel.

In the Curb the exceptionally "thin" Aluminum Ltd. jumped eleven points. Among forward leaners were Coro Inc., Cities Service, Varrett Corporation and Phillips Packing. Lynch Corporation was up two on a stock splitup proposal. Turnover here was 340,000 shares versus 390,000 yesterday.

A wide group of rail and industrial obligations achieved modest gains in the bond market in extremely light dealings. Some minus signs appeared at the close but all changes were narrow.

Sales totaling $3,660,000 were the lowest for a full session since last September 17, and compared with $4,010,000 on Monday.

United States governments were slightly lower in outside markets and mixed on the stock exchange, where the 2¾s of '65-'60 were down one-fourth of a point.

O'Conor Says Balanced Budget Is Necessary

BALTIMORE, March 12—(AP)—Calling for a balanced national budget, Gov. O'Conor said tonight that "no domestic problem looms up as more important than the necessity for economy in the federal government."

In an address at a Second district political rally, O'Conor declared that the state government in the past eight years "has operated on a balanced budget by living within its income and by eliminating unnecessary expenses and employes."

O'Conor, candidate for the nomination as United States senator in the Democratic primary, said the federal government now is spending about twice as much each year as before the war, and the total number on government payrolls exceeds 2,500,000 persons.

B. and O. President Calls For Freight Rate Boost

WILMINGTON, Del., March 12—(AP)—Roy B. White, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, asserted tonight that a freight rate increase appeared to be the only way in which the railroads could cope with rising costs and decreasing traffic revenues.

In an address prepared for delivery at a dinner meeting of the Wilmington Traffic Club, White said that the "railroads are prominent among the few types of business whose product is selling no higher now than at the beginning of the war."

"It would be a good thing for us all if the railroads could carry on on that basis," he said, "but it's just not in the cards.

"The railroad industry absorbed a billion dollars of additional costs a year beginning with 1942, representing an increase of nearly thirty per cent in wage rates and material prices. This staggering amount was absorbed without increasing freight rates—only because of the record-breaking wartime traffic volume."

Scattered Stocks Make Headway But Many Leaders Drift Lower

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—Scattered stocks made some headway in today's market although many leaders continued to drift lower in the slowest dealings for about seven months.

Bearish aspects of foreign developments and widespread strike stalemates continued to inspire some selling and keep numerous customers in neutral territory.

Transfers of 720,000 shares were a low total for a full session since last August 8. They compared with 880,000 Monday.

Paramount Pictures added three and one-fourth, and Atlantic Coast Line, Eastern Kodak, Douglas Aircraft and Union Carbide were up about two each. Lesser gainers included Twentieth Century-Fox, Pepsi-Cola, United States Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, Hudson Motors, Graham-Paige Goodrich, Glenn Martin, Boeing, Lockheed, American Telephone, Electric Power and Light, Kennecott, Du Pont, Santa Fe, New York Central, Northern Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Losers were General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, International Harvester, Deere, Caterpillar Tractor, Sperry, Western Union "A", Consolidated Edison, Columbia Gas, Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, Westinghouse, American Can, Johns-Manville, Philip Morris, United States Gypsum, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Southern Railway and International Nickel.

In the Curb the exceptionally "thin" Aluminum Ltd. jumped eleven points. Among forward leaners were Coro Inc., Cities Service, Varrett Corporation and Phillips Packing. Lynch Corporation was up two on a stock splitup proposal. Turnover here was 340,000 shares versus 390,000 yesterday.

A wide group of rail and industrial obligations achieved modest gains in the bond market in extremely light dealings. Some minus signs appeared at the close but all changes were narrow.

Sales totaling $3,660,000 were the lowest for a full session since last September 17, and compared with $4,010,000 on Monday.

United States governments were slightly lower in outside markets and mixed on the stock exchange, where the 2¾s of '65-'60 were down one-fourth of a point.

O'Conor Says Balanced Budget Is Necessary

BALTIMORE, March 12—(AP)—Calling for a balanced national budget, Gov. O'Conor said tonight that "no domestic problem looms up as more important than the necessity for economy in the federal government."

In an address at a Second district political rally, O'Conor declared that the state government in the past eight years "has operated on a balanced budget by living within its income and by eliminating unnecessary expenses and employes."

O'Conor, candidate for the nomination as United States senator in the Democratic primary, said the federal government now is spending about twice as much each year as before the war, and the total number on government payrolls exceeds 2,500,000 persons.

B. and O. President Calls For Freight Rate Boost

WILMINGTON, Del., March 12—(AP)—Roy B. White, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, asserted tonight that a freight rate increase appeared to be the only way in which the railroads could cope with rising costs and decreasing traffic revenues.

In an address prepared for delivery at a dinner meeting of the Wilmington Traffic Club, White said that the "railroads are prominent among the few types of business whose product is selling no higher now than at the beginning of the war."

"It would be a good thing for us all if the railroads could carry on on that basis," he said, "but it's just not in the cards.

Music and Arts Club Presents Annual Program

American Songs and Readings Feature Meeting of Local Group

The annual "All American" program of the Music and Arts club was presented at a meeting of the group Monday evening at the home of Mrs. William L. Keller, 206 Fayette street. Mrs. James W. Kirk and Mrs. Samuel T. Weatherholt were co-hostesses.

Mrs. Arthur C. Bright was chairman of the program, which opened with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner", with Mrs. Henry C. Swearingen at the piano. Two readings, "Sketches on American Music" and "Renascence", were given by Miss Maxwell Croft of the staff of radio station WTBO.

Mrs. Wellington Reinhart, soprano, presented a group of American songs with Mrs. Weatherholt at the piano. The group included "The Sleep That Flits O'er Baby's Eyes," "Nocturne," "At Parting" and "My Curly Headed Baby."

The program was concluded with two selections from John Aiden Carpenter's "Diversions," by Mrs. Marguerite W. Richards, pianist. Following the program refreshments were served by the hostesses, with Mrs. William B. Ludman presiding at the tea table.

At the business session, the group voted a donation of $5 to the Red Cross. Plans for the Junior Competitive Music Festival to be held later this month, and the Maryland State Music convention, to be held in May, were discussed. Mrs. Ludman was in charge of the business session.

Some Garrett

state operators $25 a year, with the operators registering with the forestry department. While a few local operators have ignored the request to register, the majority of the offenders are from out of the state, Johnson said.

In stripping timber land in the way a portion of Meadow mountain was stripped, the owners are actually losing money over a period of years, are helping to divest the area of its principal attraction to tourists and sportsmen and are seeing to it that future generations have little or nothing in the way of timber supply, Johnson said.

When the first settlers came to this area, the mountains were covered with timber, Johnson said. They aren't so covered today and it is self evident to any layman that the forests are being abused, Johnson said.

The district forester pointed out that in 1914 7,750,245 cubic feet of timber was cut in Garrett county, for example, of which 48,279,000 board feet was hardwood lumber.

Timber Values Decrease

In 1944, a war year, the total amount of cutting reported was 4,175,000 board feet representing the cutting of nine tenths of the operators in the county. If delinquent operators had reported in, the total would probably show perhaps six million feet, Johnson said.

"Its self evident that timber values in Garrett county are less than they were in 1914", Johnson said. "In other words, in a war year, only one tenth was available to cutting compared to 1914."

The forester also said that approximately two million mine posts were cut in 1944 and if selective cutting is not adhered to in the future, there is going to be less and less.

The biggest argument in favor of selective cutting, Johnson said, is the fact that Garrett county, seventy per cent of which is wooded, should insist on the enforcement of regulations that will insure the maintenance of the county's principal industry in years to come.

In answering the charges that the commission's powers are too broad and all inclusive, Johnson said that the operators have a district board which they have recourse to and that this board can make recommendations to the commission.

Henry Kimble, Dawson, is improving at Memorial hospital.

Eugene S. Weaver, who has been ill for the past year, is improving at Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, where he has been a patient for the past three weeks. He is a former resident of LaVale.

County Board

ers to urge that the funds be provided, the board received a letter from Stella W. Lambert, president of the Potomac Valley Homemakers' Club, who said residents of the Pinto-Rawlings section favor the project.

Delegate In Group

Lester B. Reed, of Mt. Savage, member of the House of Delegates, was in the group appearing before the board. Others were Mrs. George J. Miller, of the County Council of Parent-Teachers; Mrs. James Spitznas, of the Homemakers' Council; George Mease, of the Gephart School Parent-Teacher Association and the Co-ordinating Council; Mrs. Lloyd B. Shaw, of the American Farm Women of Allegany County; John Ash, of the Frostburg Rotary Club and Parent-Teacher Association; Mrs. William L. Maddocks, county chairman of the library project for the various clubs.

Commissioners Green and Holmes approved an order, presented by County Engineer John H. Carscaden, to purchase a patching roller, to cost about $1,500, for use in road work. Wilkinson opposed the order, asserting that the county already has two rollers which are adequate for the work.

Ask Tax Data

Walter H. McGill, local contractor, and William R. Carscaden, attorney for a group supporting a veterans' housing project six miles west of Cumberland along Route 40, conferred with the board regarding county tax assessments on the land, owned by Archibald Longerbeam, and which would be laid off in lots for building homes for veterans.

They were informed that a reassessment of property in that area was recently completed and that no change would be made in the assessment until homes or other buildings were erected there.

Music and Arts Club Presents Annual Program

American Songs and Readings Feature Meeting of Local Group

The annual "All American" program of the Music and Arts club was presented at a meeting of the group Monday evening at the home of Mrs. William L. Keller, 206 Fayette street. Mrs. James W. Kirk and Mrs. Samuel T. Weatherholt were co-hostesses.

Mrs. Arthur C. Bright was chairman of the program, which opened with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner", with Mrs. Henry C. Swearingen at the piano. Two readings, "Sketches on American Music" and "Renascence", were given by Miss Maxwell Croft of the staff of radio station WTBO.

Mrs. Wellington Reinhart, soprano, presented a group of American songs with Mrs. Weatherholt at the piano. The group included "The Sleep That Flits O'er Baby's Eyes," "Nocturne," "At Parting" and "My Curly Headed Baby."

The program was concluded with two selections from John Alden Carpenter's "Diversions," by Mrs. Marguerite W. Richards, pianist. Following the program refreshments were served by the hostesses, with Mrs. William B. Ludman presiding at the tea table.

At the business session, the group voted a donation of $5 to the Red Cross. Plans for the Junior Competitive Music Festival to be held later this month, and the Maryland State Music convention, to be held in May, were discussed. Mrs. Ludman was in charge of the business session.

state operators $25 a year, with the operators registering with the forestry department. While a few local operators have ignored the request to register, the majority of the offenders are from out of the state, Johnson said.

In stripping timber land in the way a portion of Meadow mountain was stripped, the owners are actually losing money over a period of years, are helping to divest the area of its principal attraction to tourists and sportsmen and are seeing to it that future generations have little or nothing in the way of timber supply, Johnson said.

When the first settlers came to this area, the mountains were covered with timber, Johnson said. They aren't so covered today and it is self evident to any layman that the forests are being abused, Johnson said.

The district forester pointed out that in 1914 7,750,245 cubic feet of timber was cut in Garrett county, for example, of which 48,279,000 board feet was hardwood lumber.

Timber Values Decrease

In 1944, a war year, the total amount of cutting reported was 4,175,000 board feet representing the cutting of nine tenths of the operators in the county. If delinquent operators had reported in, the total would probably show perhaps six million feet, Johnson said.

"Its self evident that timber values in Garrett county are less than they were in 1914", Johnson said, "In other words, in a war year, only one tenth was available to cutting compared to 1914."

The forester also said that approximately two million mine posts were cut in 1944 and if selective cutting is not adhered to in the future, there is going to be less and less.

The biggest argument in favor of selective cutting, Johnson said, is the fact that Garrett county, seventy per cent of which is wooded, should insist on the enforcement of regulations that will insure the maintenance of the county's principal industry in years to come.

In answering the charges that the commission's powers are too broad and all inclusive, Johnson said that the operators have a district board which they have recourse to and that this board can make recommendations to the commission.

Henry Kimble, Dawson, is improving at Memorial hospital.

Eugene S. Weaver, who has been ill for the past year, is improving at Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, where he has been a patient for the past three weeks. He is a former resident of LaVale.

County Board

ers to urge that the funds be provided, the board received a letter from Stella W. Lambert, president of the Potomac Valley Homemakers' Club, who said residents of the Pinto-Rawlings section favor the project.

Delegate In Group

Lester B. Reed, of Mt. Savage, member of the House of Delegates, was in the group appearing before the board. Others were Mrs. George J. Miller, of the County Council of Parent-Teachers; Mrs. James Spitznas, of the Homemakers' Council; George Mease, of the Gephart School Parent-Teacher Association and the Co-ordinating Council; Mrs. Lloyd B. Shaw, of the American Farm Women of Allegany County; John Ash, of the Frostburg Rotary Club and Parent-Teacher Association; Mrs. William L. Maddocks, county chairman of the library project for the various clubs.

Commissioners Green and Holmes approved an order, presented by County Engineer John H. Carscaden, to purchase a patching roller, to cost about $1,500, for use in road work. Wilkinson opposed the order, asserting that the county already has two rollers which are adequate for the work.

Ask Tax Data

Walter H. McGill, local contractor, and William R. Carscaden, attorney for a group supporting a veterans' housing project six miles west of Cumberland along Route 40, confered with the board regarding county tax assessments on the land, owned by Archibald Longerbeam, and which would be laid off in lots for building homes for veterans.

They were informed that a reassessment of property in that area was recently completed and that no change would be made in the assessment until homes or other buildings were erected there.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS—WEREN'T

More conversational lather has been lavished on "the good old days" than on any subject I know. Even when I was living through that era I seriously doubted whether it was as perfect as advertised. Now I know. It wasn't.

The simple fact is—"the good old days"—weren't. They were probably as presentable as we were able to dish up with the material at hand and they had certain undeniable virtues. But when it comes to mooning over them as a perfect pattern for human behavior I protest. And noisily! For I was there.

First off, the good old days were unsanitary, or to be blunt, downright dirty. Granted that plumbing was largely an undeveloped art in grandpa's youth, the good folk could still have done a lot about the neighborhood sights and smells—which they didn't.

The truth is, they didn't "set much store on all this new fangled fussiness." What harm was done to good steaks and chops if several million flies crawled over them in the course of the day? Why complain because the long accumulated livery stable leavings proclaimed their presence ten blocks away? People had to have horses, didn't they? 'N' horses were horses. So why act so choosey?

As for open drains, public garbage dumps, unquarantined diseases, uninspected herds, uncontrolled rats and roller towers and common drinking cups in every school, the good old days accepted these as acts of God . . . and blamed Him for all ensuing epidemics.

Even worse than the dirt was the moral cowardice of the '80s and '90s. People at large would permit almost any degree of domestic and civic scandal "s'long as folks didn't get talking." Countless abuses needed exposure but that was the era of glorified hush-hush.

Dirty, cowardly, dishonest and downright smug about it all—these are only a few of the charges which may well be brought against the "good old days." Then why do so many mourn their passing?. Because it's human nature to want what's past and to condemn all changes which might possibly call for a little effort on our part. Someone—was it Oliver Wendell Holmes?—once wrote—

"We're curious critters—
"Now's never the minute
"That fits us just exactly
"When we're in it—
"Long as 'twas future
"It was perfect bliss;
"Soon as 'tis passed
"It's worth ten times o' this."

So you can safely bet that we will always be eulogizing the good old days in spite of the livery stables. Yet, with all their faults, those days promoted a thrift, industry and respect for authority which we might well adopt in place of our present maudlin admiration for virtues that never existed.

W. I. Cheshire Dies Suddenly In Keyser, W. Va.

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., March 13—William I. Cheshire, 62, retired Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company employee, died suddenly at 7:30, Monday night. Though he had retired from active service with the railroad company on November 22, last year, he seemed to be in fair health and was able to take care of his home; and yesterday afternoon he was down town inquiring about paint. He stated that he was feeling well enough to undertake the work of painting his home on Saint Cloud street.

As usual he went to the Masonic Temple for the regular Monday night lodge session. Climbing up the several flights of stairs leading to the lodge room which is on the third floor of the emple building, seemed to exhaust him. Soon after reaching lodge room he collapsed and death came before medical aid could be summoned.

A native of Hampshire county, he was born near Augusta. His parents were the late Perry J. and Anna M. Grapes Cheshire. He came with his parents to Keyser in 1904 and began working for the railroad company about 1916, continuing in the service until his retirement four months ago. He advanced to the position of yard foreman which position he held at the time of his retirement.

His widow, the former Miss Grace Spiker, of Keyser, survives. Surviving also are two daughters, Mrs. Kenneth Barncord, Gaithersburg, Md., and Miss Almeda Cheshire, Washington, D. C.

He was a Scottish Rite Mason and a member of the Eastern Star, being worthy patron in the Eastern Star. In the Knights of Pythias he was a member of Olive Branch lodge, the D.O.K.K.'s and the Pythian Sisters. He was a member of the Moose Lodge and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

He was a member of Grace Methodist church in which church funeral services wil be held at 2:30 p. m., Thursday, with the Rev. Harry S. Myerly, pastor, officiating. The funeral will be in charge of the Masonic Lodge. Interment will be in Queens Point cemetery.

Will Celebrate Anniversary

The Pythian Sisters will celebrate their twenty - third anniversary, Thursday, March 14, the program beginning at 7:30 p. m. First there will be the regular lodge session at which sixteen candidates will be inducted into the order. Then will follow the anniversary program under the direction of Mrs. Donald McKee. Following the program refreshments will be served in the Castle dining hall.

Lodge Initiates Candidates

Queens Point Lodge No. 78, I. O. O. F. instructed a class of twelve in the work of the first degree, the Degree of Friendship; in the I. O. O. F. Temple, Monday night.

The class will be advanced to the second degree, the Degree of Love, next Monday, March 18, and on Monday March 25, the class will complete the work of the subordinate branch of the order.

The membership campaign now under way will go on for the next three months. There will be a class for the initiatory degree on the first Monday in April.

Officers Installed

The Past Noble Grands of Mount Olive Rebekah Lodge installed officers for the ensuing term at their meeting Friday night. The new officers are Lorena Rice, president; Buzza Ashenfelter, vice - president; Ethel Smith, secretary; Anna Leary, treasurer; Emma Stallings, chaplain; Faye Horner, marshall; Daisy Cather, pianist, and Faye Edwards, reporter.

W. I. Cheshire Dies Suddenly In Keyser, W. Va.

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., March 12—William I. Cheshire, 62, retired Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company employee, died suddenly at 7:30, Monday night. Though he had retired from active service with the railroad company on November 22, last year, he seemed to be in fair health and was able to take care of his home; and yesterday afternoon he was down town inquiring about paint. He stated that he was feeling well enough to undertake the work of painting his home on Saint Cloud street.

As usual he went to the Masonic Temple for the regular Monday night lodge session. Climbing up the several flights of stairs leading to the lodge room which is on the third floor of the emple building, seemed to exhaust him. Soon after reaching lodge room he collapsed and death came before medical aid could be summoned.

A native of Hampshire county, he was born near Augusta. His parents were the late Perry J. and Anna M. Grapes Cheshire. He came with his parents to Keyser in 1904 and began working for the railroad company about 1916, continuing in the service until his retirement four months ago. He advanced to the position of yard foreman which position he held at the time of his retirement.

His widow, the former Miss Grace Spiker, of Keyser, survives. Surviving also are two daughters, Mrs. Kenneth Barncord, Gaithersburg, Md., and Miss Almeda Cheshire, Washington, D. C.

He was a Scottish Rite Mason and a member of the Eastern Star, being worthy patron in the Eastern Star. In the Knights of Pythias he was a member of Olive Branch lodge, the D.O.K.K.'s and the Pythian Sisters. He was a member of the Moose Lodge and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

He was a member of Grace Methodist church in which church funeral services wil be held at 2:30 p. m., Thursday, with the Rev. Harry S. Myerly, pastor, officiating. The funeral will be in charge of the Masonic Lodge. Interment will be in Queens Point cemetery.

Will Celebrate Anniversary

The Pythian Sisters will celebrate their twenty - third anniversary, Thursday, March 14, the program beginning at 7:30 p. m. First there will be the regular lodge session at which sixteen candidates will be inducted into the order. Then will follow the anniversary program under the direction of Mrs. Donald McKee. Following the program refreshments will be served in the Castle dining hall.

Lodge Initiates Candidates

Queens Point Lodge No. 78, I. O. O. F. instructed a class of twelve in the work of the first degree, the Degree of Friendship; in the I. O. O. F. Temple, Monday night.

The membership campaign now under way will go on for the next three months. There will be a class for the initiatory degree on the first Monday in April.

Case of Skeleton In Burned Auto Nears Solution

Woman Identifies Articles Found in Car as Belonging to Husband

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., March 12 (AP)—The sobbing wife of Gerald D. Curtis, Arcadia, Calif., war veteran, today identified articles found in the charred interior of his car—to which a still unidentified skeleton was chained—as belonging to her husband.

But Deputy Coroner Hugh Gallon, at the conclusion of an inquest in the desert town of Mojave, announced he would not announce a decision until he hears the report of a county pathologist studying the remains to determine its sex.

The car, even its door handles melted by the intense heat, was found Sunday by hunters on a lonely mining road. Officers said all clothing, which apparently had been folded on the rear seat, had been destroyed. A state highway investigator testified a dental bridge found on the ground outside the car matched one which Curtis's wife brought to the inquiry. It was sent to Curtis's dentist for further study.

The principal witness was Mrs. Maxine E. Curtis. Her husband, 34, stepson of Rear Adm. William R. Purnell, has been missing since last January 6 and it was under his name that the burned automobile was registered.

She identified her husband's key chain, cigaret lighter and belt buckle.

"We have been married seven years, and even before we were married, he used to go on trips to the desert," testified Mrs. Curtis, mother of a 3½-year-old son. "He never offered any explanation for those trips—the last one, before he disappeared, was last July.

Martin Discusses 1946 Prospects Of Cincinnati

By WHITNEY MARTIN

TAMPA, Fla., March 12. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds had defeated the Detroit Tigers in their opening exhibition game and it seemed a good time for the Reds to end their season right there, as after they had beaten the world champions anything else they might do would be anti-climatic, and they probably will do plenty of anything else.

In fact, many folks are picking the Cardinals and Reds to finish 1-8 in the National league, and although the Red players and officials can't see themselves as a last-place club, it is undeniably true that unless they can find a couple of men who don't think hitting a ball over an outfielder's head is against the rules they are going to have their troubles.

The Reds will have good pitching, good catching, a fine second base combination, and a young third baseman who may be a real star before long. Then comes the period. There just ain't no more. The consistent, stout hitting isn't there, and even the best pitchers have to have some runs scored behind them.

We saw three of the chuckers against the Tigers. Bucky Walters worked three innings satisfactorily, although he complained of either a sore or a tired arm afterwards. Johnny Vander Meer worked three innings, and he was Johnny Vander Meet, a little wild, a little unpredictable, but nevertheless effective.

Beggs Does Best Job

Then came Joe Beggs, whom we thought did the bast job of all; a job the more remarkable in that he hadn't thrown a baseball in nearly two years until a couple of weeks ago. He had speed, control and all that stuff. Meaning stuff in the sense that a pitcher has it or doesn't have it, and if that doesn't make sense we haven't our stuff today.

We've always been an admirer of Beggs. He was on relief so long with the Reds he developed a bull pen pallor and any time he came into a game without men on the bases he felt lonesome. He was a good relief man, too, winning nine straight in that role in 1940.

He wasn't happy, though. He yearned for a chance to start games, and finally, late in 1943, Bill McKechnie let him start a game. Then another one, and another one until Joe had a record of something like five victories against one defeat, that an extra inning game with the Cardinals. He won his only start in 1944 before going into the service.

"Mr. McKechnie wondered how I could take right up where I left off," Joe says. "I told him that after four years in the bull pen a pitcher needs two years rest."

He wondered a little at the mental processes of a pitcher during a game, and whether a chucker just got out there and chucked or whether he had a set plan. We noticed he was a very fast pitcher, and he said he worked a Double "A" game at Newark in 55 minutes.

"I make up my mind quick," he said, "and don't want to stall around to give the batter a chance to think too. He might outguess me. My idea is to make the batter hit my pitch, the ball I want him to hit at. After all, there are just two pitches, low outside and high inside. Nobody is going to murder a low outside pitch."

Tamborini Organization Concedes Peron Victory

BUENOS AIRES, March 12 (AP) — The Association of Professional and Cultural Organizations, which supported Jose Tamborini in the February 24 presidential election, today conceded victory to Col. Juan D. Peron, accused by the United States State Department of being pro-Nazi.

This was the first admission by a Tamborini organization that the election of Peron was inevitable.

Committee Cancels Pauley Hearing

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP) — The Senate Naval Affairs committee cancelled a hearing today on Edwin W. Pauley's nomination as undersecretary of the navy, leaving the former Democratic national treasurer's status more in doubt than ever.

Although some Democratic as well as Republican committee members had predicted guardedly over the weekend that Pauley was set to withdraw, they appeared resigned today to further extension of the hearings, if that is what Pauley should insist upon.

A high-ranking Democratic member said that no withdrawal proposition is "nailed down," and a Republican expressed the belief that the affair is now at a stage where a major change can come any fifteen minutes.

The announcement that the scheduled afternoon committee session was off was made by Chairman Walsh (D-Mass) after an hour's conference in his private office with Pauley, National Democratic Chairman Hannegan and Sen. Tydings (D-Md.)

Instead, Walsh told reporters who gathered around him in an ornate anteroom of the Senate chamber, the committee will meet behind closed doors tomorrow morning "to consider further proceedings in this hearing."

CHURCHILL VISITS ROOSEVELT'S GRAVE

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Marsh 12 (AP) —A wreath of white carnations was placed on the rose-garden grave of Franklin D. Roosevelt today by his friend and ally of the war years, Winston Churchill.

The stocky former British prime minister, who had motored from New York with his wife and daughter, stood with head downcast, a slight frown on his face, for two minutes of silence beside the grave of the man whose name and destiny history has linked with his.

Nearby, dressed in black, was the widow of the late president, and beside her stood Mrs. Churchill.

In addition to Mrs. Churchill and their daughter, Mrs. Sarah Churchill Oliver, the former British head of state was accompanied by John G. Winant, ambassador to the Court of St. James.

Case of Skeleton In Burned Auto Nears Solution

Woman Identifies Articles Found in Car as Belonging to Husband

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., March 12 (AP)—The sobbing wife of Gerald D. Curtis, Arcadia, Calif., war veteran, today identified articles found in the charred interior of his car—to which a still unidentified skeleton was chained—as belonging to her husband.

But Deputy Coroner Hugh Gallon, at the conclusion of an inquest in the desert town of Mojave, announced he would not announce a decision until he hears the report of a county pathologist studying the remains to determine its sex.

The car, even its door handles melted by the intense heat, was found Sunday by hunters on a lonely mining road. Officers said all clothing, which apparently had been folded on the rear seat, had been destroyed. A state highway investigator testified a dental bridge found on the ground outside the car matched one which Curtis's wife brought to the inquiry. It was sent to Curtis's dentist for further study.

The principal witness was Mrs. Maxine E. Curtis. Her husband, 34, stepson of Rear Adm. William R. Purnell, has been missing since last January 6 and it was under his name that the burned automobile was registered.

She identified her husband's key chain, cigaret lighter and belt buckle.

"We have been married seven years, and even before we were married, he used to go on trips to the desert," testified Mrs. Curtis, mother of a 3½-year-old son. "He never offered any explanation for those trips—the last one, before he disappeared, was last July.

Martin Discusses 1946 Prospects Of Cincinnati

By WHITNEY MARTIN

TAMPA, Fla., March 12. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds had defeated the Detroit Tigers in their opening exhibition game and it seemed a good time for the Reds to end their season right there, as after they had beaten the world champions anything else they might do would be anti-climatic, and they probably will do plenty of anything else.

In fact, many folks are picking the Cardinals and Reds to finish 1-8 in the National league, and although the Red players and officials can't see themselves as a last-place club, it is undeniably true that unless they can find a couple of men who don't think hitting a ball over an outfielder's head is against the rules they are going to have their troubles.

The Reds will have good pitching, good catching, a fine second base combination, and a young third baseman who may be a real star before long. Then comes the period. There just ain't no more. The consistent, stout hitting isn't there, and even the best pitchers have to have some runs scored behind them.

We saw three of the chuckers against the Tigers. Bucky Walters worked three innings satisfactorily, although he complained of either a sore or a tired arm afterwards. Johnny Vander Meer worked three innings, and he was Johnny Vander Meet, a little wild, a little unpredictable, but nevertheless effective.

Beggs Does Best Job

Then came Joe Beggs, whom we thought did the bast job of all; a job the more remarkable in that he hadn't thrown a baseball in nearly two years until a couple of weeks ago. He had speed, control and all that stuff. Meaning stuff in the sense that a pitcher has it or doesn't have it, and if that doesn't make sense we haven't our stuff today.

We've always been an admirer of Beggs. He was on relief so long with the Reds he developed a bull pen pallor and any time he came into a game without men on the bases he felt lonesome. He was a good relief man, too, winning nine straight in that role in 1940.

He wasn't happy, though. He yearned for a chance to start games, and finally, late in 1943, Bill McKechnie let him start a game. Then another one, and another one until Joe had a record of something like five victories against one defeat, that an extra inning game with the Cardinals. He won his only start in 1944 before going into the service.

"Mr. McKechnie wondered how I could take right up where I left off," Joe says. "I told him that after four years in the bull pen a pitcher needs two years rest."

He wondered a little at the mental processes of a pitcher during a game, and whether a chucker just got out there and chucked or whether he had a set plan. We noticed he was a very fast pitcher, and he said he worked a Double "A" game at Newark in 55 minutes.

"I make up my mind quick," he said, "and don't want to stall around to give the batter a chance to think too. He might outguess me. My idea is to make the batter hit my pitch, the ball I want him to hit at. After all, there are just two pitches, low outside and high inside. Nobody is going to murder a low outside pitch."

Other Demands Are Listed

Others among the nine demands—just half the number he made of the operators last year—included:

"Improved safety and compliance with mining, compensation and occupational disease laws; adjustment of intra-district and inter-district differential and local inequalities affecting classification and compensation; elimination of inequities and abuses of existing fining and penalty provisions of basic and collateral agreements; amendment of rules and practices to promote mutual accord, increased efficiencies and elimination of the small tyrannies of management; adjustment of controversy incident to unilateral interpretation of existing agreement by operators."

Lewis has cleared the way to call a strike April 1. He has served notice to the government that a dispute exists thirty days in advance of the termination of the bituminous contract. The anthracite contract, involving 75,000 Pennsylvania hard coal miners, would terminate a month later.

The UMW boss insisted that the current contract had been negotiated "during the travail of war" and that "naturally an instrument negotiated under those conditions needs modification and amendment when hostilities cease and peace comes."

Committee Cancels Pauley Hearing

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP) — The Senate Naval Affairs committee cancelled a hearing today on Edwin W. Pauley's nomination as undersecretary of the navy, leaving the former Democratic national treasurer's status more in doubt than ever.

Although some Democratic as well as Republican committee members had predicted guardedly over the weekend that Pauley was set to withdraw, they appeared resigned today to further extension of the hearings, if that is what Pauley should insist upon.

A high-ranking Democratic member said that no withdrawal proposition is "nailed down," and a Republican expressed the belief that the affair is now at a stage where a major change can come any fifteen minutes.

The announcement that the scheduled afternoon committee session was off was made by Chairman Walsh (D-Mass) after an hour's conference in his private office with Pauley, National Democratic Chairman Hannegan and Sen. Tydings (D-Md.)

Instead, Walsh told reporters who gathered around him in an ornate anteroom of the Senate chamber, the committee will meet behind closed doors tomorrow morning "to consider further proceedings in this hearing."

CHURCHILL VISITS ROOSEVELT'S GRAVE

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Marsh 12 (AP) —A wreath of white carnations was placed on the rose-garden grave of Franklin D. Roosevelt today by his friend and ally of the war years, Winston Churchill.

The stocky former British prime minister, who had motored from New York with his wife and daughter, stood with head downcast, a slight frown on his face, for two minutes of silence beside the grave of the man whose name and destiny history has linked with his.

Nearby, dressed in black, was the widow of the late president, and beside her stood Mrs. Churchill.

In addition to Mrs. Churchill and their daughter, Mrs. Sarah Churchill Oliver, the former British head of state was accompanied by John G. Winant, ambassador to the Court of St. James.

Garrett Grand Jurors Return 8 Indictments

Murder Indictment Is Found against Herman Ray Fazenbaker

OAKLAND, March 12.—Eight indictments, including one for murder, were returned by the March term grand jury at the conclusion of its deliberations this afternoon, according to Neil C. Fraley, state's attorney.

The murder indictment was issued against Herman Ray Fazenbaker, 23, of the Bittinger section, as the result of the death of Loman Wilt, 42, also of near Bittinger, who was shot last October while hunting in the woods, and died in Memorial hospital, Cumberland, a short time afterward. The jurors examined twenty-six witnesses. Irvin R. Rudy served as foreman, while Clifford Phillips and George Breuninger were clerks. Other indictments are the usual "run-of-mine" infractions of the law, Fraley said.

Petit jurors are called for Monday morning, March 25.

Prior to adjornment the grand jurors inspected the court house, jail, sheriff's residence and made recommendations for some repairs. The records in the treasurer's office, office of clerk of the court, and register of wills were also inspected and found to be efficiently and neatly kept.

Marine Corps League Closes Local Charter

Francis K. Finan Detachment, Marine Corps League, met Monday at 63 Baltimore street, and closed its charter application with forty-three charter members.

Plans were discussed to hold an all-marine rally here at an early date, and Herman M. Heller, temporary president named John T. Fey, Thomas S. Watson and A. Joseph Chorpenning as a committee to make arrangements.

All marines or ex-marine interested in participating in the rally, should contact the local recruiting office for details and dates, Heller said.

Heller also explained that while the charter application was closed so the petition could be mailed today, membership is still open to all marines and ex-marines in this section. Application blanks for membership are available from any member of the local detachment, or at the marine recruiting office.

Divorce Granted Jean Stutzman

Chief Judge William A. Huster Monday granted a divorce to Mrs. Jean Stutzman from Charles E. Stutzman, Allegany Grove, on undisclosed grounds. Stutzman is business agent of the Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, AFL, in Cumberland. She was represented by Edward J. Ryan.

Judge Huster also granted an absolute decree to Leroy H. Chaney from Mrs. Eva L. Chaney. Grounds were not disclosed by his council, Ryan. Both are residents of Cumberland and employes of the Celanese Corporation of America.

Testimony will be resumed March 13 before Associate Judge Walter C. Capper in the suit for partial divorce filed by Harry Llewellyn, of near Vale Summit, against Mrs. Mildred R. Llewellyn. The husband, associated with his father in the operation of a large dairy farm, charged that she refused to live at his home. The wife, represented by Estel C. Kelly, claimed "in-law" interference made living conditions "intolerable." Ryan is counsel for the husband.

James R. Dick, Cresaptown, yesterday filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to gain his release from the county jail, alleging his is "unjustly detained" by Sheriff David M. Steele.

A hearing will be held today in circuit court before Judge Huster. Julius E. Schindler is attorney for Dick, who was arrested last Friday by state police on a fugitive warrant from Cambridge, Mass., accusing him of deserting and failing to support his wife and child there.

Asking for the custody of a daughter, aged 9 and a son, aged 6, Mrs. Percilla P. Logsdon, Cresaptown, has filed suit for divorce from William F. Logsdon, of near Westminster, Md. Her attorney, Kelley, said they were married in 1935 and lived together until August 31, 1939.

Mrs. Sally Catherine Moats, 924 Glenwood street, filed a suit for an absolute divorce from John David Moats. The wife, represented by Albert A. Doub, Jr., said they were married December 8, 1933, in this city. Judge Huster ordered Moats to pay his wife $40 monthly alimony pending a decision in the case, and restrained him from entering the premises or molesting her in any way.

Capper Says Americans Must Be on Guard To Protect Rights

Americans must be on their guard to prevent the loss of their rights under the democratic system of government, Associate Judge Walter C. Capper said Monday in delivering the charge to the grand jury as the March term of Garrett County Circuit Court opened in Oakland.

Judge Capper told the jury, "You have seen in other nations in recent years how people had been arrested, tried, and executed without legal process, how liberty of speech, of the press and of religion, and a right to worship God as one may see fit, have been completely destroyed."

"Let us each do our part as grand jurors and as citizens to see to it that no such catastrophe shall ever happen in this country," the jurist said.

Judge Capper presided yesterday for hearings in a number of civil cases and expects to return to Cumberland tomorrow after the grand jury submits its report.

Criminal trials of the term will open March 25 with Judge Capper presiding. Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, Hagerstown, may also go to Oakland for the criminal trials.

B. and O. To Adopt Food-Saving Plan

BALTIMORE, March 12 (AP)—H. O. McAbee, superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad's dining car department, said today the B. and O. would carry out to the letter the food-saving provisions requested by the government.

After conferring with United States Department of Agriculture officials, McAbee said dining cars would eliminate toast served as a garnish for other dishes and patties used with meat dishes.

Corn and buckwheat cakes will be substituted for the wheat variety, he said, and double and triple decker sandwiches will give way to open-faced sandwiches to save white bread. Pies also will be open-faced on the B. and O., McAbee added, to eliminate the use of wheat for the upper crust.

The program is in line with the government's policy of saving wheats, fats and oils for transport to the hungry of Europe.

BALTIMORE, March 12 (AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad announced today it had lifted all restrictions on advance reservations of sleeping car, parlor car and reserved coach service, effective March 15.

The action had been authorized by the Office of Defense Transportation. At the same time, the B. and O. said it would restore sleeping car service between Baltimore and New York, Washington and New York, and Detroit and Dayton, Ohio—routes heretofore banned by ODT as a wartime measure.

—Olo Roemer, Danish astromomer born in 1644, discovered the measurement of the finite velocity of light, and foresaw nearly all the modern precision instruments.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Coleman was named temporary vice president when labor groups met here last week to reorganize the conference which has been inactive for some time.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Fesler, Former Buckeye Gridder, Will Coach Pitt

Assistant Mentor at Princeton Will Succeed Shaughnessy

PITTSBURGH, March 12 (AP)—For the second time in its fifty-six-year gridiron history, the University of Pittsburgh today appointed a non-Pitt man—former Ohio State Star Wesley Fesler—as its football coach.

Fesler, now assistant football coach at Princeton, succeeds Clark D. Shaughnessy who resigned February 4 to return to the University of Maryland.

Pitt Chancellor R. H. Fitzgerald announced the appointment following a meeting of the board of trustees. He said Fesler's assistants would be Walter Milligan, former Pitt player, now an assistant coach at Tulsa university, and Charles Hartwig, an assistant coach under Shaughnessy.

At his Princeton, N. J., home, the 38-year-old coach said he would arrive in Pittsburgh Thursday morning.

Fesler was named All-America end in 1929 and 1930 while playing for Ohio State where he began his coaching career, assisting Sam Willaman in 1931 and 1932.

The following year he went to Harvard as backfield coach and head basketball mentor. In 1942, he shifted to Wesleyan university in Connecticut, coaching both football and basketball. A year ago he was appointed assistant football coach at Princeton where he also served as head basketball and assistant baseball coach.

SPORTS FALLACIES
by MARGERY MILLER

THE SPORT most closely associated with America is baseball.

But baseball is not America's oldest or most American sport. Known as the national pastime of the United States, the sport has become a trade mark of this country, partly because it was invented here and partly because it is the most popular sport we have.

Long before the United States

became a political state; before the white man had even settled on this continent, the Indians of Canada were playing lacrosse. They called it baggataway. Big baggataway games were often accompanied by religious ceremonies, dancing, feasting and merrymaking.

Pioneer French-Canadians became intrigued with baggataway, borrowed it from the Indians, modified the rules of the game slightly, and called it lacrosse.

Tropical Park Suspends Baltimore Trainer On Stimulation Charge

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., March 12 (AP)—Track stewards today suspended Trainer Clarence Reynolds, Baltimore, for the balance of the meeting on a stimulation charge.

Old Westbury won in the silks of James Scaffidi, Philadelphia.

Eastern Shore Court Teams Plan Tourney

CHESTERTOWN, Md., March 12 (AP)—Six boys teams and six girls teams were entered today in the Eastern Shore High School basketball tournament opening here tomorrow.

The tournament, one of a series to determine the Maryland high school championship, is sponsored by the newly formed Health and Physical Education Association of Maryland schools.

Pairings for tomorrow's games follow:

(Boys)
Chestertown vs Sudlersville
Centreville vs Federalsburg
Preston vs Elkton
(Girls)
Chestertown vs Sudlersville
Centreville vs Federalsburg
Denton vs North East

The second round will be played Friday with the winners of the first two games in each section meeting. Winners of the third game in each section were given a bye until the finals March 19.

Tom Smith's Case Is Taken under Advisement

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—State Supreme Court Justice Morris Eder has taken under advisement the case of Trainer Tom Smith, pending submission of reply-briefs to a two-hour vocal argument by opposing lawyers on the court's jurisdiction.

Smith's plea for a stay of execution of the year-long suspension handed him by the Jockey club on charges of stimulating a horse automatically also was taken under advisement.

Counzelman Plans To Have Cardinals Ready for Scrap

Chicago Coach To Give Bears and All-America Team Competition

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, March 12 (AP) — The Chicago Cardinals, long a "soft touch" in the National Football League, will be primed for a scrap when the All-America Conference moves into Chicago for a three-cornered battle for professional survival this fall.

Why? Because Conzelman is back and the Cardinals got him.

White-thatched Jimmy Conzelman, the sporting man of many talents, today promised to unveil the "T", spring loose a lot of fancy-stepping backs and cause the National League as well as the "upstart" All-America plenty of consternation in his return to the Cardinal helm.

Conzelman, who coached the Cardinals three seasons until 1943 and then was a mysterious, but effective emissary of the St. Louis Browns for three years, knows better than any National Leaguer Chicago's importance in the feud with the All-America.

The A-A Rockets plan a grandiose debut at mammoth Soldier Field, reckoning only the perennially-powerful Chicago Bears as gate trouble. A "freeze-out" of the hapless Cardinals and more woe for the National League which already has lost the Brooklyn Dodgers was taken for granted.

But that was before smooth-talking, sharp-thinking Conzelman climbed back into the Cardinal saddle. Often tagged a one-man blitzkrieg Conzelman isn't selling the All-America short. "Name-calling never helped in any business," asserted the man who has been in just about every kind of business, from coaching to Drama. "I think that our league owners have more promotional experience and I think that the All-America's boosting of salaries fifty per cent in many instances is unsound.

"But the whole thing will be settled by the public. It will pay only for results in the long run."

Conzelman is going after results with the strongest Cardinal roster he ever had, including such backfield material as holdovers Paul Christian, Al Druls and Frank Seno, and newcomers Pat Harder of Wisconsin, Jim Reynolds of Oklahoma A and M, Elmer Angsman of Notre Dame and Doug Renzel of Marquette.

He also hopes to sign Marshall Goldberg, former Pitt star, who was the Cardinals' lone mainstay during Jimmy's lean first term in which his teams won only six and lost twenty-three starts.

SCHREIBER THINKS WILLIAMS IS BEST SOUTHPAW HITTER

By JACK HAND

HAVANA, March 12 (AP) — Paul Schreiber, a fellow who has thrown more home run balls than any other pitcher, thinks Ted Williams is the best lefthanded hitter he has ever seen.

Schreiber is a specialist in that sort of thing. He is the lean right-hander who made a life's work out of having his pitches hit into the distant stands.

That was back in the old days with the powerhouse New York Yankees who used to overawe the opposition with a heavy barrage of 1 o'clock homers.

"Nobody will ever know," laughed Schreiber who now belongs to the Boston Red Sox. "But I'll bet I threw more home run pitches than anybody. I can laugh about it too because that's what I got paid for.

"Those other guys go out there day after day worrying about having one pitch slammed over the wall. Me . . . I'm just the happiest man around when they start teeing off on me. That means I'm in the groove.

"I got a big kick out of the way those Yankees used to hit me. Now I get the same kick out of Williams. For my money he is the best left handed hitter and Joe DiMaggio is the best right hander. I wouldn't want to say which one is better."

The Navy said that Wilson would retain his post as chief physical training instructor and would serve also on the football coaching staff during the summer.

Wilson's basketball team this year lost three out of 15 contests, the last game being a defeat by Army, 67-60.

YANKS BLAST TIGERS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 12 (AP)—The New York Yankees continued their torrid pace in the Grapefruit League today as they mauled three Detroit hurlers for fifteen hits, including three homers, to wallop the Tigers 12-1.

In scoring their fourth Florida triumph in as many starts, the Yankees treated the 3,847 paid customers to an old-time slugging show. They belted all three circuit clouts in a big sixth inning which netted eight runs at George Caster's expense. Pitcher Bill Zuber hit one with two on and Joe Gordon and Joe DiMaggio got the others.

Washington Looks Like Dark Horse In Junior Circuit

Jeff Heath's Added Power and Top Flight Pitching Seen as Factors

By JACK HAND

HAVANA, March 12 (AP) — Washton shapes up as a dark horse in the American League race with added power from big Jeff Heath and continued fine pitching making them a dangerous threat.

Just how dangerous and how much of a threat remains to be seen but the "cinderella boys" of 1945 rate consideration. Nobody gave them a tumble last spring because they looked like the same team that finished a badly beaten last in 1944 but they were up there on the neck of Detroit at the finish and almost grabbed all the money.

Heath's performance may be the key to the Senators' fate. The husky native Canadian is the kind of slugger Washington was crying for last fall. He can break up a ball game with one mighty swish of his bat but, to put it mildly, there always has been an uncertain quality about him.

Big Jeff was dissatisfied in Cleveland, didn't like the ball park, didn't like the management, didn't like anything. Still, he has been a most valuable hitter.

Manager Ossie Bluege honestly thinks his club has a chance with hitters like Buddy Lewis, Cece Travis, Stan Spence, Mickey Vernon and Heath to drive in the runs.

Washington probably will go to the post with only one righthanded hitter in the starting lineup, Jerry Priddy at second base, but that doesn't worry grey-thatched Ossie.

The infield setup after about three weeks' training is Vernon on first base, Priddy at second, Travis at third and Sherry Robertson at short stop. All four are returning servicemen. Gil Torres, the 1945 regular shortstop, will give Robertson competition at third and might unseat him. George Myatt at second and the veteran Joe Kuhel at first are leading candidates for their old jobs.

Newport Tourney Roster Complete

NEWPORT, R. I., March 12—(AP)—With the acceptance of De La Salle Academy, the roster of teams for the ninth annual Eastern States Catholic Invitation Basketball Tournament to be held here March 28, 29 and 30, was completed yesterday.

Schools previously accepting bids for the series were La Salle Academy, the defending champions, of New York; St. Phillips High School, Chicago; Fairfield Preparatory High School, Fairfield, Conn.; St. Mary's High School, Clarksburg, W. Va.; La Salle Institute, Cumberland, Md., and La Salle High School, Philadelphia.

Blue Boys Top Gremlins

The West Side Blue Boys, with Murray scoring seven points, edged out the SS. Peter and Paul Gremlins, 13-12, in a recent basketball game on the SS. Peter and Paul court. Hudak had six points for the Gremlins.

Yankee President Wins First Fall Of Feud with Reds

By GAYLE TALBOT

TAMPA, Fla., March 12. — (AP)—President Larry MacPhail, of the Yankees, appeared tonight to have won the first fall in what shapes up as a lively spring feud between the volatile redhead and his old club in the National League, the Cincinnati Reds.

By going directly to Sam Breadon, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, MacPhail has forced reduction of a scheduled exhibition double-header at St. Petersburg tomorrow between the Cards and Cincinnati to a single game. It would have been the first double bill so far as anyone can recall, in the history of spring training in Florida.

When he heard about it belatedly, MacPhail swung into violent action, demanding that it be called off on the ground that it would hurt the attendance at a single Cards-Yankees game scheduled in the same park on Thursday.

Making no progress in a highly-vocal outburst at the park, in the course of which President Ford Frick, of the National League, walked away from him, MacPhail next got on the phone and demanded of Warren Giles, general manager of the Reds, that the doubleheader be reduced to a single game.

"He said that if the cards played two games they would break a contract with him," Giles said today. "I told him I knew of no such contract and that we intended to play two games. But he must have convinced Breadon because the Cards notified us today they could play only one."

In the course of the conversation, Giles said, he took the occasion to tell the Yankees' president what he thought of the New York club's scheme of playing two teams around the grapefruit league this winter and calling both simply the "Yankees", though all the club's stars are one one squad.

Assistant Mentor at Princeton Will Succeed Shaughnessy

PITTSBURGH, March 12 (AP)—For the second time in its fifty-six-year gridiron history, the University of Pittsburgh today appointed a non-Pitt man—former Ohio State Star Wesley Fesler—as its football coach.

Fesler, now assistant football coach at Princeton, succeeds Clark D. Shaughnessy who resigned February 4 to return to the University of Maryland.

Pitt Chancellor R. H. Fitzgerald announced the appointment following a meeting of the board of trustees. He said Fesler's assistants would be Walter Milligan, former Pitt player, now an assistant coach at Tulsa university, and Charles Hartwig, an assistant coach under Shaughnessy.

At his Princeton, N. J., home, the 38-year-old coach said he would arrive in Pittsburgh Thursday morning.

Fesler was named All-America end in 1929 and 1930 while playing for Ohio State where he began his coaching career, assisting Sam Willaman in 1931 and 1932.

The following year he went to Harvard as backfield coach and head basketball mentor. In 1942, he shifted to Wesleyan university in Connecticut, coaching both football and basketball. A year ago he was appointed assistant football coach at Princeton where he also served as head basketball and assistant baseball coach.

SPORTS FALLACIES
by MARGERY MILLER

THE SPORT most closely associated with America is baseball.

But baseball is not America's oldest or most American sport. Known as the national pastime of the United States, the sport has become a trade mark of this country, partly because it was invented here and partly because it is the most popular sport we have.

Long before the United States

became a political state; before the white man had even settled on this continent, the Indians of Canada were playing lacrosse. They called it baggataway. Big baggataway games were often accompanied by religious ceremonies, dancing, feasting and merrymaking.

Pioneer French-Canadians became intrigued with baggataway, borrowed it from the Indians, modified the rules of the game slightly, and called it lacrosse.

Tropical Park Suspends Baltimore Trainer On Stimulation Charge

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., March 12 (AP)—Track stewards today suspended Trainer Clarence Reynolds, Baltimore, for the balance of the meeting on a stimulation charge.

The Florida state chemist reported to the stewards yesterday that the analysis of a urine specimen of the horse, Old Westbury, winner of the second race here on Saturday, March 9, showed positive signs of benzedrine.

Pending further action, all horses trained by Reynolds are barred from further racing at the meeting, which ends April 19.

Old Westbury won in the silks of James Scaffidi, Philadelphia.

Eastern Shore Court Teams Plan Tourney

CHESTERTOWN, Md., March 12 (AP)—Six boys teams and six girls teams were entered today in the Eastern Shore High School basketball tournament opening here tomorrow.

The tournament, one of a series to determine the Maryland high school championship, is sponsored by the newly formed Health and Physical Education Association of Maryland schools.

Pairings for tomorrow's games follow:

(Boys)
Centreville vs Federalsburg
Preston vs Elkton
(Girls)
Chestertown vs Sudlersville
Centreville vs Federalsburg
Denton vs North East

The second round will be played Friday with the winners of the first two games in each section meeting. Winners of the third game in each section were given a bye until the finals March 19.

Tom Smith's Case Is Taken under Advisement

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—State Supreme Court Justice Morris Eder has taken under advisement the case of Trainer Tom Smith, pending submission of reply-briefs to a two-hour vocal argument by opposing lawyers on the court's jurisdiction.

Smith's plea for a stay of execution of the year-long suspension handed him by the Jockey club on charges of stimulating a horse automatically also was taken under advisement.

Counzelman Plans To Have Cardinals Ready for Scrap

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, March 12 (AP) — The Chicago Cardinals, long a "soft touch" in the National Football League, will be primed for a scrap when the All-America Conference moves into Chicago for a three-cornered battle for professional survival this fall.

Why? Because Conzelman is back and the Cardinals got him.

White-thatched Jimmy Conzelman, the sporting man of many talents, today promised to unveil the "T", spring loose a lot of fancy-stepping backs and cause the National League as well as the "upstart" All-America plenty of consternation in his return to the Cardinal helm.

Conzelman, who coached the Cardinals three seasons until 1943 and then was a mysterious, but effective emissary of the St. Louis Browns for three years, knows better than any National Leaguer Chicago's importance in the feud with the All-America.

The A-A Rockets plan a grandiose debut at mammoth Soldier Field, reckoning only the perennially-powerful Chicago Bears as gate trouble. A "freeze-out" of the hapless Cardinals and more woe for the National League which already has lost the Brooklyn Dodgers was taken for granted.

But that was before smooth-talking, sharp-thinking Conzelman climbed back into the Cardinal saddle. Often tagged a one-man blitzkrieg Conzelman isn't selling the All-America short. "Name-calling never helped in any business," asserted the man who has been in just about every kind of business, from coaching to Drama. "I think that our league owners have more promotional experience and I think that the All-America's boosting of salaries fifty per cent in many instances is unsound.

"But the whole thing will be settled by the public. It will pay only for results in the long run."

Conzelman is going after results with the strongest Cardinal roster he ever had, including such backfield material as holdovers Paul Christian, Al Druls and Frank Seno, and newcomers Pat Harder of Wisconsin, Jim Reynolds of Oklahoma A and M, Elmer Angsman of Notre Dame and Doug Renzel of Marquette.

He also hopes to sign Marshall Goldberg, former Pitt star, who was the Cardinals' lone mainstay during Jimmy's lean first term in which his teams won only six and lost twenty-three starts.

SCHREIBER THINKS WILLIAMS IS BEST SOUTHPAW HITTER

By JACK HAND

HAVANA, March 12 (AP) — Paul Schreiber, a fellow who has thrown more home run balls than any other pitcher, thinks Ted Williams is the best lefthanded hitter he has ever seen.

Schreiber is a specialist in that sort of thing. He is the lean right-hander who made a life's work out of having his pitches hit into the distant stands.

That was back in the old days with the powerhouse New York Yankees who used to overawe the opposition with a heavy barrage of 1 o'clock homers.

"Nobody will ever know," laughed Schreiber who now belongs to the Boston Red Sox. "But I'll bet I threw more home run pitches than anybody. I can laugh about it too because that's what I got paid for.

"Those other guys go out there day after day worrying about having one pitch slammed over the wall. Me . . . I'm just the happiest man around when they start teeing off on me. That means I'm in the groove.

"I got a big kick out of the way those Yankees used to hit me. Now I get the same kick out of Williams. For my money he is the best left handed hitter and Joe DiMaggio is the best right hander. I wouldn't want to say which one is better."

The Navy said that Wilson would retain his post as chief physical training instructor and would serve also on the football coaching staff during the summer.

Wilson's basketball team this year lost three out of 15 contests, the last game being a defeat by Army, 67-60.

YANKS BLAST TIGERS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 12 (AP)—The New York Yankees continued their torrid pace in the Grapefruit League today as they mauled three Detroit hurlers for fifteen hits, including three homers, to wallop the Tigers 12-1.

In scoring their fourth Florida triumph in as many starts, the Yankees treated the 3,847 paid customers to an old-time slugging show. They belted all three circuit clouts in a big sixth inning which netted eight runs at George Caster's expense. Pitcher Bill Zuber hit one with two on and Joe Gordon and Joe DiMaggio got the others.

Cecil Travis got three singles in five trips to the plate to drive in two Washington runs. The Nats scored four runs in the third on a homer by Third Baseman Sherry Robertson, two singles, two walks and an error.

Washington Looks Like Dark Horse In Junior Circuit

By JACK HAND

HAVANA, March 12 (AP) — Washton shapes up as a dark horse in the American League race with added power from big Jeff Heath and continued fine pitching making them a dangerous threat.

Just how dangerous and how much of a threat remains to be seen but the "cinderella boys" of 1945 rate consideration. Nobody gave them a tumble last spring because they looked like the same team that finished a badly beaten last in 1944 but they were up there on the neck of Detroit at the finish and almost grabbed all the money.

Heath's performance may be the key to the Senators' fate. The husky native Canadian is the kind of slugger Washington was crying for last fall. He can break up a ball game with one mighty swish of his bat but, to put it mildly, there always has been an uncertain quality about him.

Big Jeff was dissatisfied in Cleveland, didn't like the ball park, didn't like the management, didn't like anything. Still, he has been a most valuable hitter.

Washington probably will go to the post with only one righthanded hitter in the starting lineup, Jerry Priddy at second base, but that doesn't worry grey-thatched Ossie.

The infield setup after about three weeks' training is Vernon on first base, Priddy at second, Travis at third and Sherry Robertson at short stop. All four are returning servicemen. Gil Torres, the 1945 regular shortstop, will give Robertson competition at third and might unseat him. George Myatt at second and the veteran Joe Kuhel at first are leading candidates for their old jobs.

NEWPORT, R. I., March 12—(AP)—With the acceptance of De La Salle Academy, the roster of teams for the ninth annual Eastern States Catholic Invitation Basketball Tournament to be held here March 28, 29 and 30, was completed yesterday.

Schools previously accepting bids for the series were La Salle Academy, the defending champions, of New York; St. Phillips High School, Chicago; Fairfield Preparatory High School, Fairfield, Conn.; St. Mary's High School, Clarksburg, W. Va.; La Salle Institute, Cumberland, Md., and La Salle High School, Philadelphia.

Yankee President Wins First Fall Of Feud with Reds

By GAYLE TALBOT

TAMPA, Fla., March 12. — (AP)—President Larry MacPhail, of the Yankees, appeared tonight to have won the first fall in what shapes up as a lively spring feud between the volatile redhead and his old club in the National League, the Cincinnati Reds.

By going directly to Sam Breadon, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, MacPhail has forced reduction of a scheduled exhibition double-header at St. Petersburg tomorrow between the Cards and Cincinnati to a single game. It would have been the first double bill so far as anyone can recall, in the history of spring training in Florida.

When he heard about it belatedly, MacPhail swung into violent action, demanding that it be called off on the ground that it would hurt the attendance at a single Cards-Yankees game scheduled in the same park on Thursday.

Making no progress in a highly-vocal outburst at the park, in the course of which President Ford Frick, of the National League, walked away from him, MacPhail next got on the phone and demanded of Warren Giles, general manager of the Reds, that the doubleheader be reduced to a single game.

"He said that if the cards played two games they would break a contract with him," Giles said today. "I told him I knew of no such contract and that we intended to play two games. But he must have convinced Breadon because the Cards notified us today they could play only one."

In the course of the conversation, Giles said, he took the occasion to tell the Yankees' president what he thought of the New York club's scheme of playing two teams around the grapefruit league this winter and calling both simply the "Yankees", though all the club's stars are one one squad.

Air Force Lists Radio Tribute To Pennsylvania

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, March 12. (AP)—The army air force series, recently introduced as a weekly matinee feature on the MBS list, will pay tribute to Pennsylvania in its Wednesday broadcast at 4:30 p. m. Capt. George Howard leads the air force band, the program to include Mendelssohn's "Ruy Blas."

The Bob Crosby show, transferred from Tuesday, now is a 9:30 regular on Wednesday nights CBS. Beside guests the broadcast includes John Lund, classified as an actor-announcer, and the Town Criers, who sing instead of crying.

Mr. and Mrs. North insist they have a comedy-drama for their NBC mystery at 8. They are calling it, they let the world know, "The Norths Have the Luck of the Irish." Must have something to do with the forthcoming St. Patrick's day.

Whatever guesting that is done with the Andrews Sisters of CBS at 10:30 will be supplied by Kenny Baker and not Jerry Colonna, as the program listing had announced.

A listed talk on "The Truth about OPA and Price Control" is to bring Rep. Fred A. Hartley, Jr., of New Jersey, to an ABC microphone in Washington at 10 p. m.

Clem McCarthy and Bob Stanton will co-operate in supplying the 6:30 five-times a week NBC "Spotlight on Sports". In addition, Stanton also does quite a bit of sportcasting for the NBC television station, where he doesn't have to do nearly as much talking because the pictures help him out considerably in telling the story.

Incorporation of LaVale Discussed at Meeting

Formation of LaVale Improvement Association Planned; Six Specific Objectives Listed

Plans for the formation of a group to be named the LaVale Improvement Association, which hopes to be incorporated under state laws, were made at a meeting of thirty LaVale residents last evening at the home of C. R. Gashaw.

George Louis Spoerl, a director of the LaVale Water Company, was named temporary chairman of the association and Alvin E. Yaste, chief clerk of Local Draft Board No. 3, was named secretary.

Sprigg Tower, general contractor, who has been working on a community directory for LaVale, opened the meeting and outlined the aims of the association, stating that he has been canvassing LaVale residents and they are interested in the following projects:

Projects Are Outlined

1. Establishment of an adequate street lighting system.

2. Arranging with D. Clifford Goodfellow of the LaVale Water Company to insure an adequate water supply throughout the year.

3. Study of the proposed veterans' housing project in the vicinity of the Six Mile House, especially in regard to the proposal that sewage from the project be dumped into Braddock run.

4. Petitioning the board of county commissioners to arrange for street repairs and snow removal in LaVale.

5. Arranging with the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company to provide bus service each half hour between the Six Mile house and Cumberland, for the convenience of LaVale residents.

6. Incorporation so that a zoning commission may be set up to establish regulations regarding building and occupancy restrictions.

A good part of the meeting was devoted to a discussion of the impending raise of the flat water rate in LaVale from $18 to $20 annually, which will become effective April 1.

During an open forum, it was decided that the increased rate would be acceptable if residents were assured of an adequate water supply during the summer as well as throughout the remainder of the year.

Spoerl said that the water system is antiquated, pointing out that two, three and four inch pipe lines now in use are too small to carry the necessary volume of water, although the supply itself is adequate.

Street Lighting Discussed

With regard to lighting of streets, Tower said that he conferred with Henry W. Price, district manager of the Potomac Edison Company, and that Price said approximately 192 street lights with 100-watt power would be needed to cover each developed street in LaVale. The annual fee, including installation, would be $4,800.

Tower said arrangements could be made to place that amount on a pro-rated bill on the tax bill, if a petition signed by seventy-five per cent of LaVale residents were presented to the county commissioners.

Regarding sewage disposal, from the proposed veterans' housing project, Tower said that present plans call for using Braddock run for that purpose, as LaVale now does. He added, however, that plans are being made to petition the federal government to build a sewer line, starting from the Winchester road and paralleling Braddock run to its intersection with Wills creek, where it is hoped to build a disposal plant.

Regarding the progress of the LaVale directory and numbering houses and erecting signposts, Tower reported that the three projects will be completed by April 1. He pointed out that there are 4,000 residents in LaVale, and stated that the work has taken some time because volunteer workers could give their time only in the evenings and on Saturday afternoons.

It was pointed out that there is over three and a half million dollars' worth of taxable property in LaVale, and that very little county money has been spent in making improvements in the community.

Another Meeting Called

A temporary committee under Spoerl's chairmanship was named to review the various projects of the proposed association and to prepare the topics so that they could discuss them at a public meeting to be held in the near future.

The committee, with one representative from the entire LaVale district from the Mt. Savage road to the Winchester bridge, will meet next Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the Gashaw residence. Districts and their representatives are as follows:

Mt. Savage road to Park Heights, George L. Humphreys; Park Heights section, Robert Slemmer; Park Heights to LaVale school, Alex Buchanan; LaVale school up to and including Klosterman's addition, Douglas Ritchie; A, B, C, and D streets to Cash Valley road, Fred Hawkins; Braddock Farms section, George Brown; Gramlich road section, William Sparks; Woodlawn avenue, Millard Hughes.

Will Explain Purposes

East Woodlawn, J. H. Burkhart; Woodlawn to Grant street, William Douglas; Forest Glen to Harold street, Robert Weirs; Harold street to LaVale boulevard, W. M. Sissler; LaVale boulevard to Emporium store at beginning of Allegany Grove, Harry B. Simpson; Emporium store to Vcke drive, including Allegany Grove section, George Twigg; Braddock road to the Six Mile house, the Rev. George E. Baughman.

Since most of the members of the committee were not present at yesterday's meeting, eight additional men who were present were appointed to explain the purposes of the association to the members, and to act on the committee.

Those named were Ray Nine, C. H. O'Neal, Frank Gaglin, William E. Bishop, William Frazier, J. R. Cook, Dr. F. F. Lookenott and Gashaw.

Tower stated that arrangements have been made with the post office department to make the entire section from Mt. Savage road to the Winchester bridge come under the listing of LaVale, with the eventual elimination of mailing addresses of Long, Park Heights, Narrows Park and Braddock Farms. No date for the action has been set, however.

Health Board Gets Audiometer From the Legion

Presentation Is Made for the Mountain District by Frank Powers

The Mountain District of the American Legion last night presented an audiometer to the Allegany County Health Department at the regular meeting of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13.

The presenation was made by Frank Powers, Frostburg, Mountain District vice commander, who told the members that in a sense he was "pinch hitting" for Miss Anne Sloan, chld welfare charman, who has been greatly interested in the matter. Powers said that according to Miss Sloan's research, it has been shown that one of every three rejections in the army were traced to childhood diseases that could have been corrected and that faulty hearing was one of these diseases.

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, a member of Fort Cumgerland Post No. 13, accepted the audiometer on the behalf of the health department and expressed his "heartfelt thanks."

Use Is Explained

Dr. Franklin told the Legionnaires "We are now the only health department in all the counties in the state that possess an audiometer and you may rest assured that it will be used. This is only one of the many services our organization (the Legion) has given to the community, to the state and to the nation."

Following the acceptance by Dr. Franklin, a representative of the company that manufactures the audiometer explained its use to the members, stating that its prime purposes to determine loss of hearing in children. The representative said that three per cent of the population is deaf and that this figure can be cut in half by clinical research. It is possible to screen sixty children an hour with the machine, he said.

At the conclusion of this ceremony, the regular meeting of Fort Cumberland Post was called to order by Commander Samuel A. Graham. The regular committee reports were made when it was revealed that plans for the initiation Friday night at the armory are proceding well and that a large turnout is anticipated.

The fact that out of town posts are planning to support the program Friday night was evinced by reports made by four guests at last night's meeting. These included: Commander Powers, Frostburg, who said that approximately 100 Frostburg Legionnaires were planning to attend along with the band; Commander Joseph Nolan, Mt. Savage post, who said two bus loads would come; Commander Howard Blackburn, Westernport post, who said 100 members would be present, and Commander James H. Jenkins, Lonaconing post, who said that his post would be represented by about 100 members.

Dances Are Planned

Commander Graham urged both "old and new" members to support the Friday night ceremony which he said promises to be one of the most impressive ever held in this district.

Adjutant Russell Paupe, chairman of a special dance committee, announced that plans are progressing for the series of Saturday night dances to be sponsored by the Legion with the first dance scheduled for Saturday night from 8:30 to midnight at the Queen City Ballroom.

Paupe and his committee are opening the series Saturday night with a St. Patrick's day dance at which the Aristocrats will play. Paupe urged that the members of the post support the venture which he said is designed only for their pleasure and entertainment.

George Henderson last night moved that Fort Cumberland Post approve a proposal in principle whereby the post would work in conjunction with the Amvets and the Veterans of Foreign Wars in broadening the program of the Amvet "clearing house."

Col. Henderson said that the Amvet office has accomplished some good work but now that they are planning to expand their facilities they would welcome the support of the Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars in carrying out the work.

The post passed Henderson's motion after Thomas F. Conlon, special service officer who would have charge of the Legion's phase of the work, reported that he favored the proposition.

Valley Road Man Accused by Police After Accident

Arthur A. Boyce, Valley road, will be given a hearing in trial magistrates court at 10:30 a. m. today on a charge of violating state motor vehicle law as a result of an accident at the north entrance to the Celanese plant at 10:45 a. m. yesterday.

A truck, state police said, was operated by Harry K. Logue, Route 2, Flintstone, and loaded with pulpwood crashed against the car officers said Boyce was driving. Troopers said Boyce was attempting to turn into the Celanese plant when the crash occurred and that he will be charged with failing to give the proper hand signal.

None of the passengers in the car was injured and one of the two men in the truck had a cut on one finger. The car was knocked about forty feet and came to rest against a pole. The truck upset.

The Celanese police and fire departments helped State Trooper G. M. Rotruck, who investigated, clear the highway.

McDonald Is Held Under $1,000 Bond In Fatal Accident

Russell E. Smith, 27, Dies in Hospital of Fractured Skull

Harley Glenn McDonald, 33, Route 1, Ridgeley, W. Va., was held under bond of $1,000 for action of the April grand jury on a charge of manslaughter by automobile by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., yesterday afternoon in the death of Russell Edward Smith, 27, Route 1, LaVale, early yesterday morning.

Smith died in Memorial hospital at 12:35 a. m. yesterday, about ten minutes after he was admitted for treatment of injuries, suffered when the car McDonald admittedly was driving crashed against the rear of a parked truck belonging to G. C. Sensabaugh, Incorporated, in front of Plumas restaurant, Virginia avenue, shortly after midnight. Smith was a passenger in McDonald's car.

Died of Skull Fracture

Dr. Linne H. Corson, deputy county medical examiner, said Smith, a discharged overseas veteran, died of a fractured skull. He also suffered a large laceration on the chin and brush burns of both knees, Dr. Corson added.

Authorities said yesterday that McDonald, after the crash, walked back up Virginia avenue and got a taxi to drive him to his father's home on Frankfort road near Ridgeley.

In a statement made yesterday to State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris and County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle, McDonald declared he left the scene of the accident because he was "nervous and excited." He was taken into custody yesterday at the home of his father.

McDonald told authorities he had about five bottles of bear to drink all day Monday.

Smith, who was unmarried, served with the Seven Hundred and Third tank destroyer battalion in the European theater. He was a native of Vindex and a member of the Methodist church.

Parents Survive

Surviving are his parents, Joseph and Teresa Wright Smith; one brother, Arthur Smith, Winchester road; five sisters, Mrs. Thomas McKenney, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. Irvin Cecil and Mrs. William G. Clise, both of Route 1, Cumberland; Mrs. Elmer Furlow, Jr., Mt. Savage, and Mrs. Virgil Loar, Loartown.

The body was taken to the home where funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday with the Rev. J. L. Stewart officiating. Interment will be in Porter cemetery, Eckhart.

Kelly Workers Will Open Wage Talks Today

Wage negotiations between the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and Local 26, United Rubber Workers of America, CIO, will be resumed this morning at 10 o'clock at a conference to be held at the Kelly plant, Ralph C. Beard, president, announced last evening.

H. R. Lloyd, Akron, international URWA vice president, will represent the international union at the wage talks here. Lloyd, in a conversation with Beard yesterday, revealed that L. S. Buckmaster, URWA president, may also be here for the negotiations.

The union official did not reveal the nature of the demands the rubber workers union will make.

Truck Overturns On Green Ridge

A large tractor-trailer truck loaded with furniture overturned on Green Ridge mountain about 11 a. m. yesterday after it got out of control and careened against an embankment, state police reported.

Officers listed the driver of the truck as David Elwood Sykes, Norwood, Ohio. First Sgt. John H. Doud and Trooper Milton Hart, of the state police, took him to Allegany hospital for X-rays of a possible leg injury.

Troopers Harry Holsinger and Glen D. Folk remained on the scene to direct traffic after two towing cars moved the truck from the highway.

Beall Will Be Available For Conference Here On Housing Project

Rep. J. Glenn Beall, of the Sixth district, when contacted by the News last night, said that he expects to return home to Frostburg Friday night, and that he will be available Saturday for a conference with the sponsors of the proposed veterans' housing project regarding methods of securing necessary building materials.

Rep. Beall said he had received a letter from William R. Carscaden, local attorney who represents the sponsors, inviting him to come to Cumberland to discuss the problem and to study the proposed project.

The time of the conference has not been set.

Progress Reported In Establishment Of Theater Gate

Plans for Dramatic Group Outlined to Rotarians by Miss Erica Donovan

Gratifying progress and encouraging support of the Theater Gate, newly established Cumberland theater project, were reported to Rotarians at the weekly luncheon of their club yesterday at the Central Y. M. C. A. by its director, Miss Erica Donovan, of New York city.

A crying need, however, is a large barn, loft or hall, wherein productions can be given and rehearsals held, Miss Donovan said, appealing to her listeners for any information that might serve as a clue to a suitable place. At present, auditions are being held in the board of education building on Washington street and rehearsals in the public library building opposite.

The first rehearsal of the first play, Noel Coward's "Blithe Spring," which is planned for public offering the last week in April, was held last night at the library building.

Miss Donovan explained the purpose of the Theater Gate, which is to supply local dramatic offerings and to develop local talent, of which she said there is "lots" in Cumberland, not only for local theatrical productions but also for those in the larger cities. It is planned also to start a school of dramatic art in the city later on for development of both actors and theatrical technicians.

The dramatic profession in the larger cities is a strict business as well as an art medium, but is sadly overcrowded with little opportunity for beginning, which such an institution as the Theater Gate can offer in the smaller cities, the speaker said.

When she came here in January to launch the project, Miss Donovan said, she was appalled over the fact that a city of this size was absolutely without legitimate dramatic entertainment, and the fact has been deeply deplored in particular by returned servicemen, she has ascertained.

County Board Asked To Appropriate $20,000 for Traveling Library

A large delegation representing various clubs and organizations yesterday urged that the board of county commissioners appropriate $20,000 in the 1946 levy, to be signed April 16, for a proposed traveling library that would serve rural areas in the county.

Commissioners Simeon W. Green and James Holmes said they would give no definite reply until a further study of the project is made but Commissioner C. N. Wilkinson, Jr., reiterated previous statements that he was in favor of the bookmobile plan.

Law Not Mandatory

It was pointed out that an act passed last year by the Maryland Assembly does not make the appropriation mandatory but the county must provide at least $20,000, based on two cents of the tax rate, in order to obtain $5,000 in state funds for the project in this county.

The board unanimously approved a motion to ask the mayor and city council of Cumberland, the board of education and the board of the Cumberland Free Public Library to confer with them on the operation of the local library.

Green cited that Cumberland citizens are already taxed by the city to support the Cumberland library, and it might mean "double taxation" for them if they are required to pay additional county taxes to pay for the traveling library, which is intended to serve rural areas of the county.

Besides the delegation which appeared today before the commission-

Amvets Oppose Commissioning Of Non-veterans

Tell Governor Veterans Should Be Named to State Guard Posts

The executive commitee of J. Louis Wolford Post, Amvets, yesterday informed Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor that they oppose the commissioning of three non-veterans as officers of Company C, Maryland State Guard, located in Cumberland, according to Joseph Mackert, Jr., a member of the committee.

Mackert, who said he talked by telephone with the governor's secretary when he was unable to contact the governor, declared that the Amvets believe there are enough veterans of considerable experience and abliity in Cumberland who could be given the commissions instead of commissioning non-veterans for the posts.

Commissioning of non-veterans, Mackert stated, would be a "direct kick in the pants" to men who served in the armed forces of the United States during the war.

By commissioning non-veterans, veterans might refuse to join the state guard, according to Mackert, who added that some present members of the state guard approached the Amvets about the matter.

If it is desired to have veterans join the guard, then veterans, who naturally have had much wider experience in military matters than non-veterans, should be given the commissions, Mackert related.

He added that he believes a good state guard company, composed of all veterans, could be organized here.

Mackert said the governor's secretary told him the governor would reply to the Amvets request within a short time.

The News learned from an authoritative source last night that three present members of Company C who have served in the state guard since its inception four and one-half years ago, are in line to be commissioned to fill three officer vacancies.

This source said that had these men been eligible for service in the armed forces they would have been in the armed forces and not in the state guard. He added that at the present time there are only one or two war veterans serving in Company C, and that commissioning of the three men in line would come as a reward to them for meritorious service on the home front.

Demonstration Planned

County Agent R. F. McHenry announced yesterday that he has arranged with the University of Maryland to put on a demonstration in dusting cattle for the control of lice with 10 per cent DDT in pyrophyllite, Thursday, March 14, at 3 o'clock at the farm of Lloyd B. Shaw near Barton, on the Georges Creek highway.

"I think this demonstration will be of general interest to dairymen and beef cattle producers," McHenry said. A representative from the department of entomology of the University of Maryland will be present.

Some Garrett Operators Object To Forestry Conservancy Act

Consistently Ignore Attempts of Department To Obtain Concrete Information Regarding Activities, William H. Johnson Says

A few recalcitrant saw mill operators and forest products producers in Western Maryland, who resent the provisions of the Forestry Conservancy Districts act as an infringement on their personal rights, last week had notice served on them by State Forester Joseph F. Kaylor that "if they want a fight they are going to get one."

Kaylor's declaration was made at Oakland when he addressed an audience of Rotarians where the state forester pointed out that ninety-five per cent of the operators in the state are complying with the regulations. In the same breath the state forester wondered why it is that a few operators in the western portion of the state fail to grasp the true situation when hundreds all over the state see the significance of safeguarding Garrett county's wealth of timber. (Seventy per cent of the county is in timber.)

Cutting Problem Involved

Forestry officials admitted yesterday that the Western Maryland situation is rapidly coming to a head and indicated that action will probably be taken charging a few operators with specific offenses against the act. While only one operator has actually defied the foresters in their attempts to enforce the act, others have consistently "ignored" the statements of the department to obtain concrete information regarding their activities, according to District Forester William H. Johnson. A majority of the violators are out of state operators, Johnson said.

The problem, as the foresters see it, is one of "clearcutting" as opposed to "selection cutting." The fact that some operators have stripped tracts of timber bare with no selection shown indicates to the foresters that these particular owners are motivated by "sheer selfishness" and also are making no attempt to understand the virtues of selection cutting as explained by the forestry department.

The main objections as voiced by certain operators has not been to the program of the forestry department but to the fact that the regulations, as they now exist, give the commission of state forests and parks almost unlimited authority with the commission, if it so chooses, having the power to order any measure they may deem necessary.

Johnson has been quick to explain that the reason the commission has been given what was termed "elastic" authority is the fact that different regulations are required to meet the needs in various sections of the state and that any ironclad set of regulations would not be adaptable for all sections of the state.

Saw mill operators and forest products men were invited by the forestry department to attend a meeting in Friendsville on February 22 to discuss their problems but the meeting was poorly attended and consequently little was accomplished.

Out of State Offenders

"What we are contending is that these operators, many of them from out of the state, are coming into Western Maryland and in some cases have stripped tracks of timber bare and then leave the people of the counties cope with the mess they have left," Johnson said yesterday.

It was also pointed out that it is the people of the various counties who have to pay the fire bills and that the proper enforcement of the regulations is to their advantage.

As set up the conservancy act requires that state operators pay the state a flat $10 a year and out of

Work on Flood Control Project May Start in '47

Engineers Estimate 1,000 Men Will Be Employed for over Two Years

Actual construction work on the proposed flood control program for Cumberland will start about May 1, 1947, barring unforeseen obstacles, according to Col. Donald G. White, district engineer of the United States Engineer Office, Washington, D. C.

Army engineers estimated that an average of 1,000 men will be employed from twenty-six to thirty months on the project, once work is started. When work reaches its peak, 2,000 men will be employed, engineers said.

Col. White said the following steps must be taken before actual construction can be started:

Preliminary Steps Cited

1. Approval of the project by Col. E. E. Gesler, Baltimore, engineer for the Middle Atlantic division.

2. Approval of Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, chief engineer in Washington.

3. Preparation of detailed plans and specifications, asking for bids and the awarding of a contract.

4. Legislation by Congress to provide federal funds for the project.

5. Providing of funds by Mayor Thomas S. Post and the city council.

Stating that Col. Gesler is fully familiar with the plan, Col. White said that approval by the division engineer is expected some time this month.

Action by Gen. Wheeler is expected not later than July 1. If he approves the plan, it will go to the flood committee of the House of Representatives. Col. White said it is expected that the local program would be included in a general bill calling for flood protection measures at other places.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall, of the Sixth district, is a member of that committee. He has stated that he anticipates no undue delay, adding that he will introduce and support any necessary legislation, providing the plan has the endorsement of the chief engineer and is backed by the mayor and council of Cumberland.

Preparation of detailed plans and specifications will take from nine to ten months, although it is expected they will be ready in time for the "construction season" next spring.

Under the program as recommended to the division engineer, Cumberland's plan will cost a total of $7,872,606. The city's share will be $1,070,663, with $472,800 of that total earmarked for real estate.

Cost of the Ridgeley project was set at $1,065,551, with the community's share being $450,076. Of the latter amount, over $300,000 would be needed to acquire real estate.

Platt's band took the place of Maj. Glenn Miller's noted band following the disappearance of Miller on a flight from England to Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Andrews and Miss Althea Birchard will give a reception for Platt next Monday from 8:30 to 10:30 p. m. at the Algonquin hotel.

Veterans May Get City-owned Lots To Build Homes

Amvet Committee Takes Up Matter at Meeting with Mayor

If the city council gives its approval, some 400 vacant lots owned by the city will be turned over to the Amvets clearing house for distribution to veterans for home-building purposes, Joseph Mackert, Jr., announced last night following a meeting of an Amvets committee with Mayor Thomas S. Post.

The Amvets committee, Mackert, William Spangler and Charles Brode, members of the executive committee of J. Louis Wolford Post, American Veterans of World War II, called on Mayor Post yesterday morning to discuss the availability of vacant city-owned lots mentioned at Monday morning's council meeting by Commissioner Hunter B. Helfrich.

Mackert said the mayor informed the committee that he believes Helfrich's proposal to turn the lots over to veterans for building purposes without charge would meet with the approval of the entire council.

Will Compile List

Mayor Post told the Amvets group he will ask the city engineer and the tax collector to prepare a list of the city-owned lots prior to turning them over to the clearing house for distribution, if the plan meets the approval of the council.

By allowing the clearing house to distribute the lots, it will be assured that they will be channelled to veterans only, according to Mackert. He added that the only stipulation necessary to obtain a lot is for the veteran to declare his intention to build a home on it.

Mackert explained that the lots proposed to be turned over to veterans are lots that have been taken over by the city because of nonpayment of taxes by previous owners.

He pointed out that at the present time the city derives no benefit from the lots whereas if they are given to veterans the city will derive a return through the payment of taxes.

The lots are located along city streets and have water and sewerage disposal lines readily available, according to Mackert, who added that many of the lots are in desirable locations.

Legionnaires, Vets Join

Mackert also announced yesterday that the operations of the Amvets clearing house will be enlarged and that Fort Cumberland Post, No. 13, American Legion, and Henry Hart Post, No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will co-operate in the project, to be known in the future as the Veterans Information Bureau.

The Amvets for the time being, however, will act in a supervisory capacity, according to Mackert, who said it is hoped to work out a program wherein the Legion would have charge of the office two days a week, the VFW two days and the Amvets two days.

While meeting with Mayor Post yesterday, the Amvets committee asked that the city housing program, with its office in city hall, be terminated as of March 15, and that veterans' housing be handled through the Veterans Information Bureau.

Will Convey Request

Mackert said the Amvets made their request emphatic and told the mayor they would like to have the housing center returned to them inasmuch as they were the originators of the program.

Mayor Post told the committee he will attend a housing committee meeting today and will convey the request of the Amvets to the committee, Marckert reported.

Incorporation of LaVale Discussed at Meeting

Formation of LaVale Improvement Association Planned; Six Specific Objectives Listed

Plans for the formation of a group to be named the LaVale Improvement Association, which hopes to be incorporated under state laws, were made at a meeting of thirty LaVale residents last evening at the home of C. R. Gashaw.

George Louis Spoerl, a director of the LaVale Water Company, was named temporary chairman of the association and Alvin E. Yaste, chief clerk of Local Draft Board No. 3, was named secretary.

Sprigg Tower, general contractor, who has been working on a community directory for LaVale, opened the meeting and outlined the aims of the association, stating that he has been canvassing LaVale residents and they are interested in the following projects:

Projects Are Outlined

1. Establishment of an adequate street lighting system.

2. Arranging with D. Clifford Goodfellow of the LaVale Water Company to insure an adequate water supply throughout the year.

3. Study of the proposed veterans' housing project in the vicinity of the Six Mile House, especially in regard to the proposal that sewage from the project be dumped into Braddock run.

4. Petitioning the board of county commissioners to arrange for street repairs and snow removal in LaVale.

5. Arranging with the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company to provide bus service each half hour between the Six Mile house and Cumberland, for the convenience of LaVale residents.

6. Incorporation so that a zoning commission may be set up to establish regulations regarding building and occupancy restrictions.

A good part of the meeting was devoted to a discussion of the impending raise of the flat water rate in LaVale from $18 to $20 annually, which will become effective April 1.

During an open forum, it was decided that the increased rate would be acceptable if residents were assured of an adequate water supply during the summer as well as throughout the remainder of the year.

Spoerl said that the water system is antiquated, pointing out that two, three and four inch pipe lines now in use are too small to carry the necessary volume of water, although the supply itself is adequate.

Street Lighting Discussed

With regard to lighting of streets, Tower said that he conferred with Henry W. Price, district manager of the Potomac Edison Company, and that Price said approximately 192 street lights with 100-watt power would be needed to cover each developed street in LaVale. The annual fee, including installation, would be $4,800.

Tower said arrangements could be made to place that amount on a pro-rated bill on the tax bill, if a petition signed by seventy-five per cent of LaVale residents were presented to the county commissioners.

Regarding sewage disposal, from the proposed veterans' housing project, Tower said that present plans call for using Braddock run for that purpose, as LaVale now does. He added, however, that plans are being made to petition the federal government to build a sewer line, starting from the Winchester road and paralleling Braddock run to its intersection with Wills creek, where it is hoped to build a disposal plant.

Regarding the progress of the LaVale directory and numbering houses and erecting signposts, Tower reported that the three projects will be completed by April 1. He pointed out that there are 4,000 residents in LaVale, and stated that the work has taken some time because volunteer workers could give their time only in the evenings and on Saturday afternoons.

It was pointed out that there is over three and a half million dollars' worth of taxable property in LaVale, and that very little county money has been spent in making improvements in the community.

Another Meeting Called

A temporary committee under Spoerl's chairmanship was named to review the various projects of the proposed association and to prepare the topics so that they could discuss them at a public meeting to be held in the near future.

The committee, with one representative from the entire LaVale district from the Mt. Savage road to the Winchester bridge, will meet next Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the Gashaw residence. Districts and their representatives are as follows:

Mt. Savage road to Park Heights, George L. Humphreys; Park Heights section, Robert Slemmer; Park Heights to LaVale school, Alex Buchanan; LaVale school up to and including Klosterman's addition, Douglas Ritchie; A, B, C, and D streets to Cash Valley road, Fred Hawkins; Braddock Farms section, George Brown; Gramlich road section, William Sparks; Woodlawn avenue, Millard Hughes.

Will Explain Purposes

East Woodlawn, J. H. Burkhart; Woodlawn to Grant street, William Douglas; Forest Glen to Harold street, Robert Weirs; Harold street to LaVale boulevard, W. M. Sissler; LaVale boulevard to Emporium store at beginning of Allegany Grove, Harry B. Simpson; Emporium store to Vcke drive, including Allegany Grove section, George Twigg; Braddock road to the Six Mile house, the Rev. George E. Baughman.

Since most of the members of the committee were not present at yesterday's meeting, eight additional men who were present were appointed to explain the purposes of the association to the members, and to act on the committee.

Those named were Ray Nine, C. H. O'Neal, Frank Gaglin, William E. Bishop, William Frazier, J. R. Cook, Dr. F. F. Lookenott and Gashaw.

Tower stated that arrangements have been made with the post office department to make the entire section from Mt. Savage road to the Winchester bridge come under the listing of LaVale, with the eventual elimination of mailing addresses of Long, Park Heights, Narrows Park and Braddock Farms. No date for the action has been set, however.

Health Board Gets Audiometer From the Legion

The Mountain District of the American Legion last night presented an audiometer to the Allegany County Health Department at the regular meeting of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13.

The presenation was made by Frank Powers, Frostburg, Mountain District vice commander, who told the members that in a sense he was "pinch hitting" for Miss Anne Sloan, chld welfare charman, who has been greatly interested in the matter. Powers said that according to Miss Sloan's research, it has been shown that one of every three rejections in the army were traced to childhood diseases that could have been corrected and that faulty hearing was one of these diseases.

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, a member of Fort Cumgerland Post No. 13, accepted the audiometer on the behalf of the health department and expressed his "heartfelt thanks."

Use Is Explained

Dr. Franklin told the Legionnaires "We are now the only health department in all the counties in the state that possess an audiometer and you may rest assured that it will be used. This is only one of the many services our organization (the Legion) has given to the community, to the state and to the nation."

Following the acceptance by Dr. Franklin, a representative of the company that manufactures the audiometer explained its use to the members, stating that its prime purposes to determine loss of hearing in children. The representative said that three per cent of the population is deaf and that this figure can be cut in half by clinical research. It is possible to screen sixty children an hour with the machine, he said.

At the conclusion of this ceremony, the regular meeting of Fort Cumberland Post was called to order by Commander Samuel A. Graham. The regular committee reports were made when it was revealed that plans for the initiation Friday night at the armory are proceding well and that a large turnout is anticipated.

The fact that out of town posts are planning to support the program Friday night was evinced by reports made by four guests at last night's meeting. These included: Commander Powers, Frostburg, who said that approximately 100 Frostburg Legionnaires were planning to attend along with the band; Commander Joseph Nolan, Mt. Savage post, who said two bus loads would come; Commander Howard Blackburn, Westernport post, who said 100 members would be present, and Commander James H. Jenkins, Lonaconing post, who said that his post would be represented by about 100 members.

Dances Are Planned

Commander Graham urged both "old and new" members to support the Friday night ceremony which he said promises to be one of the most impressive ever held in this district.

Adjutant Russell Paupe, chairman of a special dance committee, announced that plans are progressing for the series of Saturday night dances to be sponsored by the Legion with the first dance scheduled for Saturday night from 8:30 to midnight at the Queen City Ballroom.

Paupe and his committee are opening the series Saturday night with a St. Patrick's day dance at which the Aristocrats will play. Paupe urged that the members of the post support the venture which he said is designed only for their pleasure and entertainment.

George Henderson last night moved that Fort Cumberland Post approve a proposal in principle whereby the post would work in conjunction with the Amvets and the Veterans of Foreign Wars in broadening the program of the Amvet "clearing house."

Col. Henderson said that the Amvet office has accomplished some good work but now that they are planning to expand their facilities they would welcome the support of the Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars in carrying out the work.

Henderson introduced Baron Orndorff, representing the Amvets, who briefly explained the work accomplished so far.

The post passed Henderson's motion after Thomas F. Conlon, special service officer who would have charge of the Legion's phase of the work, reported that he favored the proposition.

Valley Road Man Accused by Police After Accident

Arthur A. Boyce, Valley road, will be given a hearing in trial magistrates court at 10:30 a. m. today on a charge of violating state motor vehicle law as a result of an accident at the north entrance to the Celanese plant at 10:45 a. m. yesterday.

A truck, state police said, was operated by Harry K. Logue, Route 2, Flintstone, and loaded with pulpwood crashed against the car officers said Boyce was driving. Troopers said Boyce was attempting to turn into the Celanese plant when the crash occurred and that he will be charged with failing to give the proper hand signal.

None of the passengers in the car was injured and one of the two men in the truck had a cut on one finger. The car was knocked about forty feet and came to rest against a pole. The truck upset.

The Celanese police and fire departments helped State Trooper G. M. Rotruck, who investigated, clear the highway.

Russell E. Smith, 27, Dies in Hospital of Fractured Skull

Harley Glenn McDonald, 33, Route 1, Ridgeley, W. Va., was held under bond of $1,000 for action of the April grand jury on a charge of manslaughter by automobile by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., yesterday afternoon in the death of Russell Edward Smith, 27, Route 1, LaVale, early yesterday morning.

Smith died in Memorial hospital at 12:35 a. m. yesterday, about ten minutes after he was admitted for treatment of injuries, suffered when the car McDonald admittedly was driving crashed against the rear of a parked truck belonging to G. C. Sensabaugh, Incorporated, in front of Plumas restaurant, Virginia avenue, shortly after midnight. Smith was a passenger in McDonald's car.

Died of Skull Fracture

Dr. Linpe H. Corson, deputy county medical examiner, said Smith, a discharged overseas veteran, died of a fractured skull. He also suffered a large laceration on the chin and brush burns of both knees, Dr. Corson added.

Authorities said yesterday that McDonald, after the crash, walked back up Virginia avenue and got a taxi to drive him to his father's home on Frankfort road near Ridgeley.

In a statement made yesterday to State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris and County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle, McDonald declared he left the scene of the accident because he was "nervous and excited." He was taken into custody yesterday at the home of his father.

McDonald told authorities he had about five bottles of bear to drink all day Monday.

Smith, who was unmarried, served with the Seven Hundred and Third tank destroyer battalion in the European theater. He was a native of Vindex and a member of the Methodist church.

Parents Survive

Surviving are his parents, Joseph and Teresa Wright Smith; one brother, Arthur Smith, Winchester road; five sisters, Mrs. Thomas McKenney, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. Irvin Cecil and Mrs. William G. Clise, both of Route 1, Cumberland; Mrs. Elmer Furlow, Jr., Mt. Savage, and Mrs. Virgil Loar, Loartown.

The body was taken to the home where funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday with the Rev. J. L. Stewart officiating. Interment will be in Porter cemetery, Eckhart.

Kelly Workers Will Open Wage Talks Today

Wage negotiations between the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and Local 26, United Rubber Workers of America, CIO, will be resumed this morning at 10 o'clock at a conference to be held at the Kelly plant, Ralph C. Beard, president, announced last evening.

H. R. Lloyd, Akron, international URWA vice president, will represent the international union at the wage talks here. Lloyd, in a conversation with Beard yesterday, revealed that L. S. Buckmaster, URWA president, may also be here for the negotiations.

The union official did not reveal the nature of the demands the rubber workers union will make.

Truck Overturns On Green Ridge

A large tractor-trailer truck loaded with furniture overturned on Green Ridge mountain about 11 a. m. yesterday after it got out of control and careened against an embankment, state police reported.

Officers listed the driver of the truck as David Elwood Sykes, Norwood, Ohio. First Sgt. John H. Doud and Trooper Milton Hart, of the state police, took him to Allegany hospital for X-rays of a possible leg injury.

Troopers Harry Holsinger and Glen D. Folk remained on the scene to direct traffic after two towing cars moved the truck from the highway.

Beall Will Be Available For Conference Here On Housing Project

Rep. J. Glenn Beall, of the Sixth district, when contacted by the News last night, said that he expects to return home to Frostburg Friday night, and that he will be available Saturday for a conference with the sponsors of the proposed veterans' housing project regarding methods of securing necessary building materials.

Rep. Beall said he had received a letter from William R. Carscaden, local attorney who represents the sponsors, inviting him to come to Cumberland to discuss the problem and to study the proposed project.

The time of the conference has not been set.

Plans for Dramatic Group Outlined to Rotarians by Miss Erica Donovan

Gratifying progress and encouraging support of the Theater Gate, newly established Cumberland theater project, were reported to Rotarians at the weekly luncheon of their club yesterday at the Central Y. M. C. A. by its director, Miss Erica Donovan, of New York city.

A crying need, however, is a large barn, loft or hall, wherein productions can be given and rehearsals held, Miss Donovan said, appealing to her listeners for any information that might serve as a clue to a suitable place. At present, auditions are being held in the board of education building on Washington street and rehearsals in the public library building opposite.

The first rehearsal of the first play, Noel Coward's "Blithe Spring," which is planned for public offering the last week in April, was held last night at the library building.

Miss Donovan explained the purpose of the Theater Gate, which is to supply local dramatic offerings and to develop local talent, of which she said there is "lots" in Cumberland, not only for local theatrical productions but also for those in the larger cities. It is planned also to start a school of dramatic art in the city later on for development of both actors and theatrical technicians.

The dramatic profession in the larger cities is a strict business as well as an art medium, but is sadly overcrowded with little opportunity for beginning, which such an institution as the Theater Gate can offer in the smaller cities, the speaker said.

When she came here in January to launch the project, Miss Donovan said, she was appalled over the fact that a city of this size was absolutely without legitimate dramatic entertainment, and the fact has been deeply deplored in particular by returned servicemen, she has ascertained.

Amvets Oppose Commissioning Of Non-veterans

Tell Governor Veterans Should Be Named to State Guard Posts

The executive commitee of J. Louis Wolford Post, Amvets, yesterday informed Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor that they oppose the commissioning of three non-veterans as officers of Company C, Maryland State Guard, located in Cumberland, according to Joseph Mackert, Jr., a member of the committee.

Mackert, who said he talked by telephone with the governor's secretary when he was unable to contact the governor, declared that the Amvets believe there are enough veterans of considerable experience and ability in Cumberland who could be given the commissions instead of commissioning non-veterans for the posts.

Commissioning of non-veterans, Mackert stated, would be a "direct kick in the pants" to men who served in the armed forces of the United States during the war.

By commissioning non-veterans, veterans might refuse to join the state guard, according to Mackert, who added that some present members of the state guard approached the Amvets about the matter.

If it is desired to have veterans join the guard, then veterans, who naturally have had much wider experience in military matters than non-veterans, should be given the commissions, Mackert related.

He added that he believes a good state guard company, composed of all veterans, could be organized here.

Mackert said the governor's secretary told him the governor would reply to the Amvets request within a short time.

The News learned from an authoritative source last night that three present members of Company C who have served in the state guard since its inception four and one-half years ago, are in line to be commissioned to fill three officer vacancies.

This source said that had these men been eligible for service in the armed forces they would have been in the armed forces and not in the state guard. He added that at the present time there are only one or two war veterans serving in Company C, and that commissioning of the three men in line would come as a reward to them for meritorious service on the home front.

Demonstration Planned

County Agent R. F. McHenry announced yesterday that he has arranged with the University of Maryland to put on a demonstration in dusting cattle for the control of lice with 10 per cent DDT in pyrophyllite, Thursday, March 14, at 3 o'clock at the farm of Lloyd B. Shaw near Barton, on the Georges Creek highway.

"I think this demonstration will be of general interest to dairymen and beef cattle producers," McHenry said. A representative from the department of entomology of the University of Maryland will be present.

County Board Asked To Appropriate $20,000 for Traveling Library

A large delegation representing various clubs and organizations yesterday urged that the board of county commissioners appropriate $20,000 in the 1946 levy, to be signed April 16, for a proposed traveling library that would serve rural areas in the county.

Commissioners Simeon W. Green and James Holmes said they would give no definite reply until a further study of the project is made but Commissioner C. N. Wilkinson, Jr., reiterated previous statements that he was in favor of the bookmobile plan.

Law Not Mandatory

It was pointed out that an act passed last year by the Maryland Assembly does not make the appropriation mandatory but the county must provide at least $20,000, based on two cents of the tax rate, in order to obtain $5,000 in state funds for the project in this county.

The board unanimously approved a motion to ask the mayor and city council of Cumberland, the board of education and the board of the Cumberland Free Public Library to confer with them on the operation of the local library.

Green cited that Cumberland citizens are already taxed by the city to support the Cumberland library, and it might mean "double taxation" for them if they are required to pay additional county taxes to pay for the traveling library, which is intended to serve rural areas of the county.

Besides the delegation which appeared today before the commission-

Some Garrett Operators Object To Forestry Conservancy Act

Consistently Ignore Attempts of Department To Obtain Concrete Information Regarding Activities, William H. Johnson Says

A few recalcitrant saw mill operators and forest products producers in Western Maryland, who resent the provisions of the Forestry Conservancy Districts act as an infringement on their personal rights, last week had notice served on them by State Forester Joseph F. Kaylor that "if they want a fight they are going to get one."

Kaylor's declaration was made at Oakland when he addressed an audience of Rotarians where the state forester pointed out that ninety-five per cent of the operators in the state are complying with the regulations. In the same breath the state forester wondered why it is that a few operators in the western portion of the state fail to grasp the true situation when hundreds all over the state see the significance of safeguarding Garrett county's wealth of timber. (Seventy per cent of the county is in timber.)

Cutting Problem Involved

Forestry officials admitted yesterday that the Western Maryland situation is rapidly coming to a head and indicated that action will probably be taken charging a few operators with specific offenses against the act. While only one operator has actually defied the foresters in their attempts to enforce the act, others have consistently "ignored" the statements of the department to obtain concrete information regarding their activities, according to District Forester William H. Johnson. A majority of the violators are out of state operators, Johnson said.

The problem, as the foresters see it, is one of "clearcutting" as opposed to "selection cutting." The fact that some operators have stripped tracts of timber bare with no selection shown indicates to the foresters that these particular owners are motivated by "sheer selfishness" and also are making no attempt to understand the virtues of selection cutting as explained by the forestry department.

The main objections as voiced by certain operators has not been to the program of the forestry department but to the fact that the regulations, as they now exist, give the commission of state forests and parks almost unlimited authority with the commission, if it so chooses, having the power to order any measure they may deem necessary.

Johnson has been quick to explain that the reason the commission has been given what was termed "elastic" authority is the fact that different regulations are required to meet the needs in various sections of the state and that any ironclad set of regulations would not be adaptable for all sections of the state.

Saw mill operators and forest products men were invited by the forestry department to attend a meeting in Friendsville on February 22 to discuss their problems but the meeting was poorly attended and consequently little was accomplished.

Out of State Offenders

"What we are contending is that these operators, many of them from out of the state, are coming into Western Maryland and in some cases have stripped tracks of timber bare and then leave the people of the counties cope with the mess they have left," Johnson said yesterday.

It was also pointed out that it is the people of the various counties who have to pay the fire bills and that the proper enforcement of the regulations is to their advantage.

As set up the conservancy act requires that state operators pay the state a flat $10 a year and out of

Work on Flood Control Project May Start in '47

Engineers Estimate 1,000 Men Will Be Employed for over Two Years

Actual construction work on the proposed flood control program for Cumberland will start about May 1, 1947, barring unforeseen obstacles, according to Col. Donald G. White, district engineer of the United States Engineer Office, Washington, D. C.

Army engineers estimated that an average of 1,000 men will be employed from twenty-six to thirty months on the project, once work is started. When work reaches its peak, 2,000 men will be employed, engineers said.

Col. White said the following steps must be taken before actual construction can be started:

Preliminary Steps Cited

1. Approval of the project by Col. E. E. Gesler, Baltimore, engineer for the Middle Atlantic division.

2. Approval of Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, chief engineer in Washington.

3. Preparation of detailed plans and specifications, asking for bids and the awarding of a contract.

4. Legislation by Congress to provide federal funds for the project.

5. Providing of funds by Mayor Thomas S. Post and the city council.

Stating that Col. Gesler is fully familiar with the plan, Col. White said that approval by the division engineer is expected some time this month.

Action by Gen. Wheeler is expected not later than July 1. If he approves the plan, it will go to the flood committee of the House of Representatives. Col. White said it is expected that the local program would be included in a general bill calling for flood protection measures at other places.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall, of the Sixth district, is a member of that committee. He has stated that he anticipates no undue delay, adding that he will introduce and support any necessary legislation, providing the plan has the endorsement of the chief engineer and is backed by the mayor and council of Cumberland.

Preparation of detailed plans and specifications will take from nine to ten months, although it is expected they will be ready in time for the "construction season" next spring.

Under the program as recommended to the division engineer, Cumberland's plan will cost a total of $7,872,606. The city's share will be $1,070,663, with $472,800 of that total earmarked for real estate.

Cost of the Ridgeley project was set at $1,065,551, with the community's share being $450,076. Of the latter amount, over $300,000 would be needed to acquire real estate.

At one time Bedford county consisted of the entire western portion of Pennsylvania but later was broken up into sixteen different counties.

B. C. Riley, of the Bedford Bar Association, gave the town's legal history and Burgess Cyril Bingham gave a general history of the early days of Bedford.

The counties of Western Pennsylvania were well represented at last night's dinner-meeting with one of the guests being Senator Charles H. Ealy, Somrset, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Manges attended from Cumberland.

Detective See said Mrs. Bacezurski, a former resident of Grantsville, was found lying face down on the pavement by Officers Guy Williams and W. E. Valentine, who took her to Allegany hospital.

Veterans May Get City-owned Lots To Build Homes

If the city council gives its approval, some 400 vacant lots owned by the city will be turned over to the Amvets clearing house for distribution to veterans for home-building purposes, Joseph Mackert, Jr., announced last night following a meeting of an Amvets committee with Mayor Thomas S. Post.

The Amvets committee, Mackert, William Spangler and Charles Brode, members of the executive committee of J. Louis Wolford Post, American Veterans of World War II, called on Mayor Post yesterday morning to discuss the availability of vacant city-owned lots mentioned at Monday morning's council meeting by Commissioner Hunter B. Helfrich.

Mackert said the mayor informed the committee that he believes Helfrich's proposal to turn the lots over to veterans for building purposes without charge would meet with the approval of the entire council.

Will Compile List

Mayor Post told the Amvets group he will ask the city engineer and the tax collector to prepare a list of the city-owned lots prior to turning them over to the clearing house for distribution, if the plan meets the approval of the council.

By allowing the clearing house to distribute the lots, it will be assured that they will be channelled to veterans only, according to Mackert. He added that the only stipulation necessary to obtain a lot is for the veteran to declare his intention to build a home on it.

Mackert explained that the lots proposed to be turned over to veterans are lots that have been taken over by the city because of nonpayment of taxes by previous owners.

He pointed out that at the present time the city derives no benefit from the lots whereas if they are given to veterans the city will derive a return through the payment of taxes.

The lots are located along city streets and have water and sewerage disposal lines readily available, according to Mackert, who added that many of the lots are in desirable locations.

Legionnaires, Vets Join

Mackert also announced yesterday that the operations of the Amvets clearing house will be enlarged and that Fort Cumberland Post, No. 13, American Legion, and Henry Hart Post, No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will co-operate in the project, to be known in the future as the Veterans Information Bureau.

The Amvets for the time being, however, will act in a supervisory capacity, according to Mackert, who said it is hoped to work out a program wherein the Legion would have charge of the office two days a week, the VFW two days and the Amvets two days.

While meeting with Mayor Post yesterday, the Amvets committee asked that the city housing program, with its office in city hall, be terminated as of March 15, and that veterans' housing be handled through the Veterans Information Bureau.

Will Convey Request

Mackert said the Amvets made their request emphatic and told the mayor they would like to have the housing center returned to them inasmuch as they were the originators of the program.

Mayor Post told the committee he will attend a housing committee meeting today and will convey the request of the Amvets to the committee, Marckert reported.
